GE Asserts His Claims 'Ridiculous'

Company Declares AFL-CIO President 'Misled' By Carey

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three companies have brushed aside allegations by AFL-CIO President George Meany that the firms' welfare plans provide examples of "corruption and malfeasance."

One of the three—General Electric—looked a return whack at Meany, saying he "has made himself ridiculous in his unwarranted charges as a result, presumably, of his being misled" by James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, which has contracts with GE.

"We hope," GE said in a statement, "this is not just a carefully timed attempt to discredit reputable companies in order to divert the spotlight from the current unfavorable disclosures on activities of some union officials before other Senate committees."

Asks For Safeguards

Meany made his charges yesterday in testimony before a Senate Labor subcommittee. He asked that proposed legislation requiring disclosure on welfare funds be applied to management-operated funds as well as those administered by unions.

The labor leader then listed four cases which he said demonstrated "corruption and malfeasance" in management-handled welfare funds.

In addition to General Electric, Meany listed Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., which serves many Boston area communities; the Reed Glass Co. Inc., Rochester, N. Y., now in bankruptcy; and an unnamed West Coast firm.

The charges and replies include: General Electric—Meany said GE awarded its health insurance contract to Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., without competitive bidding, and that two GE directors also are directors of Metropolitan.

GE issued a statement in New York saying, "Mr. Meany should have taken the precaution to learn that the amount paid by the employees... is fixed by the negotiated union agreement and that General Electric pays the entire balance, however high it may run."

The company added it has handled its insurance through Metropolitan since 1920 and regards the present contract as "the best available value." Neither of the two directors, GE continued, "is in any position to profit in the slightest from the business Metropolitan does with General Electric."

A statement to that effect also was issued by Metropolitan. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Eden Celebrates 60th Birthday, 'Almost Ignored'

BROADCHALKE, England (AP)—Former Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden celebrated his 60th birthday quietly today at his wife's country cottage, where he is recuperating from a serious abdominal operation.

The birthday of the onetime "Golden Boy" of British politics, who resigned as minister and from the House of Commons in January at the height of the Suez crisis, received only passing notice in the newspapers.

But among the greetings he received was one from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Another American Turncoat Ready To Leave Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—The U.S. consulate general today said American turncoat Andrew Fortuna of Iowa, Mich., is leaving Red China Saturday.

Fortuna was one of 21 U.S. soldiers captured in the Korean War who refused repatriation after the fighting stopped in 1953. Seven of the 21 previously returned to the United States and one died in Red China.

The most recent returnee was Samuel David Hawkins of Oklahoma City, who crossed into Hong Kong last Feb. 27.

Trial Delay In Brewster Case Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—Frank W. Brewster, West Coast boss of the Teamsters Union, faced trial today on a 31-count indictment charging contempt of Congress.

The indictment stemmed from Brewster's refusal to present union records and answer questions before the Senate Investigations Subcommittee Jan. 19. Brewster contended the subcommittee had no authority to question him.

John K. Pickens, one of Brewster's lawyers, said he intended to ask again for a long continuance of the trial. Federal District Judge John J. Sirica previously had rejected a similar motion.

Pickens has contended that "mass publicity" in connection with the Senate Rackets Committee's investigation of the Teamsters Union makes it impossible to get a fair trial now.

While refusing to testify before the investigations subcommittee, Brewster subsequently appeared before the Rackets Committee and testified for five days. In general, he denied testimony of other witnesses which linked him with efforts to take over vice operations in Portland, Ore., and with misuse of union funds.

French Crisis Nears Climax

PARIS (AP)—France's three-week-old political crisis approached its end today. A coalition cabinet headed by Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury was virtually certain to win approval of Parliament.

The 42-year-old member of the middle-of-the-road Radical Socialist party was to appear before the National Assembly this afternoon with a request for investiture as France's youngest premier since 1843 and the successor to Socialist leader Guy Mollet.

Grain Futures Rally

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat, corn and soybean futures rallied on the Board of Trade today, with gains reaching around a cent in some cases soon after the opening.

Warmup Due On Weekend

BALTIMORE (AP)—Five-day forecast: Cooler Thursday, slightly warmer Friday, cooler again Saturday but warmer Sunday and Monday. Chance of showers Thursday especially over south portion and showers Friday and again by about Monday. Temperatures will average 2 to 4 degrees above normal while rainfall will total near one inch.

Senate Votes Funds Needed In Soil Bank

WASHINGTON (AP)—A marathon Senate session and some sharp vote switching gave the administration's soil bank program a new lease on life today and provided hundreds of millions of dollars for payments to farmers.

The Senate unanimously passed last night a $3,558,972,157 farm money bill and sent it back to the House. But the 780 passage vote came only after several close votes of strength on specific issues during a 13-hour session.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) called the Senate back into extra-hour duty today with two more annual appropriations bills to work on.

One would provide $5,378,224,800 for 20 miscellaneous government agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. The other carries $2,885,290,781 for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments for the same period.

Over-all, the Senate farm bill action was a broad victory for the Eisenhower administration's farm policies, although key issues still are subject to a Senate-House compromise.

Russian Boss Sees End Of Capitalism

TAMPERE, Finland (AP)—Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev predicted today the Communists will destroy capitalism, not with nuclear weapons but through the spread of the ideology.

"We are as sure of this as we are sure the sun will rise tomorrow," Khrushchev said.

Heavy Rains, Winds Pound Middle West

By The Associated Press
Late spring storms, with torrential winds, heavy rain and hail, continued to pound broad areas in the mid-continent today in the wake of yesterday's damaging turbulent weather.

Strong winds and heavy hail accompanied squall lines in parts of the central Plains and the middle Mississippi Valley during the night. The most violent weather was reported in eastern Kansas, but damaging storms also hit south and south central parts of the state, central Missouri, and sections of Oklahoma, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Funnel clouds and tornadoes were reported in the storm belt. Winds were clocked at 80 m.p.h. at Hoisington, Kan., and hail pelted the area. There were no casualties reported in the violent weather in Kansas, northern Oklahoma and Missouri.

Although the severe weather diminished in the central Plains, storms continued in the middle Mississippi Valley. Tornado and severe thunderstorm warnings were posted for the southern third of Illinois throughout the early morning hours.

Mayflower Ends Her Long Trip, Towed To Port

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—Mayflower II, replica of the original Pilgrim vessel, came down the last few miles into Provincetown harbor today at the end of a low line, bashing her blunt bow into angry seas whipped up by a sou'wester of 40 knots in the gusts.

Since leaving Plymouth, England, 53 days ago her Australian-born skipper, world-famed sailing master Alan Villiers, had guided her under sail over 5,000 meandering miles.

The Pilgrims in the original bark required 65 days on a far more direct route, logging about 3,000 miles.

Market Goes Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to advance in fairly active early trading today.

Great Naval Force Alert To Disperse

Vast Armada Ready For Review, Plans Set In Emergency

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The warships of 18 friendly nations rode easily at anchor today, awaiting review by their top military officials but alert to the unexpected—an emergency dispersal.

Possible withdrawal of the greatest armada in recent peacetime history even figured in the operational plans of the Navy in this concentration of 111 ships of 17 foreign nations and the United States.

Prepared For Dispersal
"Of course a dispersal plan is in effect," said Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet and official host of the review. "But the concentration in the area is within the allowable tolerances as far as ships of the United States are concerned."

This reference, in an interview, was to Wright's plan for allowing no more than an accepted maximum of capital ships in a given restricted area at one time.

"Each foreign ship has been assigned to a dispersal anchorage," the admiral said. "A United States ship would go with each guest ship to the assigned anchorage, either in Chesapeake Bay or cruising seaward."

Wright called the host ship-guest ship the "buddy" system. The 111 ships—78 of them American—rode smartly at anchor in full dress flags and bunting, awaiting the steam-by of the three reviewing ships, the guided missile cruisers Canberra and Boston and the tactical command ship Northampton.

Wilson Represents Ike
Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson was in the Canberra as chief reviewing officer and representative of President Eisenhower. With Wilson in the main reviewing ship were Adm. Wright and Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In the Boston was Secretary of Navy Thomas S. Gates. In the Northampton were Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, and Adm. Felix B. Stump, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet.

Also embarked in the Canberra were ambassadors of the 17 nations represented in the review.

Dorsey Dies In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Bandleader Jimmy Dorsey died today in Doctors Hospital.

Dorsey, 53, entered the hospital about a month ago.

Cause of death was not disclosed immediately.

He was a brother of Tommy Dorsey, also a bandleader, who died last November.

He had been under treatment for cancer. In January he was operated on for a lung growth. Two months later he left the band on the road to enter Doctors Hospital.

Red Subversion Rapped By U. S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States has told the Soviet Union its subversive attacks on certain Middle East states forces those nations to tighten their security measures.

Britain and France are reported to have made similar replies to a Soviet note of April 19 in the Western powers suggesting a "hands off" declaration by the four powers with regard to Middle East affairs.

Stassen Gets Order: Go Slow With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles is reported to have advised disarmament specialist Harold Stassen to adopt more cautious tactics in private negotiations with the Russians.

Dulles is understood to have impressed this on Stassen during a meeting yesterday which reviewed East-West disarmament prospects.

Dulles acted to meet vigorous backstage complaints by British, French and some other European governments against Stassen's private meetings with Valerian Zorin, Soviet representative in the London disarmament talks.

The Europeans fear Stassen might be negotiating behind their backs on problems affecting Europe.

Informal officials said there was also some feeling within the State Department that the disarmament chief has "raced ahead" of his instructions.

What annoyed the Europeans, especially was Stassen's move in presenting to Zorin informally a 23-page summary of disarmament possibilities. This was not an official Western proposal but papers aimed at acquainting the Soviets with possible Western thinking on the problem.

The British and French opposed two-way American-Soviet contacts on the ground that the London disarmament talks also involve Britain, France and Canada.

Some Europeans also expressed the view that Stassen might fall into a Soviet propaganda trap.

In a new round of talks today and tomorrow with State Department authorities, Stassen will carefully chart future moves, it was said, to avoid any possible misunderstandings. He will return to London tomorrow.

Emperor Hirohito's Sacred Horse Expires

TOKYO (AP)—Emperor Hirohito's favorite white horse, on which he was photographed countless times before and during World War II, died May 28 at the age of 23, it was learned today.

Queen To Visit Jamestown On Her Second Trip To U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, have disclosed long-rumored plans to visit America in October.

Full travel details have not been announced, but White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday the couple would be in the United States Oct. 15-21.

They will come here from Canada. The Queen will visit at Jamestown, Va., where the first permanent English colony in America was established in 1607. She and King Philip then will fly to Washington, arriving in late afternoon Oct. 16. President Eisenhower will greet them personally at the airport.

After a three-day official visit, Oct. 20 will be a day of rest here, and the couple expects to spend their last day touring New York City before flying back to London.

In November 1951, Elizabeth, then princess, and Philip visited Washington as guests of President Truman. She ascended the throne in 1952.

The last visit of a reigning British monarch to the United States was made in 1933, when Elizabeth's parents—the late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth—were guests of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Republicans Still Balky After Meet

Brown Says School Bill Not Popular, Budget 'Too Large'

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, jovial and looking chipper after his illness, was breakfast host today to 40 House Republicans in a new move to get his bogged-down legislative program through Congress.

The White House meeting marked the President's resumption of regular business engagements in the wake of the stomach upset which kept him in bed all day Monday and sharply restricted his office activities yesterday.

Eisenhower's physicians have reported him "almost" recovered from the stomach distress. They attribute his brief illness to "slight overindulgence in some types of food."

Some Still Opposed

The purpose of the breakfast series is to put Eisenhower in closer touch with GOP Congress members and enable him to do a bit of quiet missionary work on behalf of his program.

There were some immediate indications that the President still faces an uphill task in that respect, even with some members of his own party.

Rep. Brown of Ohio told newsmen after the breakfast that Eisenhower discussed the administration's legislative program briefly with him, particularly a multimillion dollar measure to provide for school construction.

"I told him," Brown related, "that Ohio is against the school bill. I said that in Ohio if we voted for that bill we would all get hung."

Brown said he also told Eisenhower that several of those at the breakfast favored cutting the administration's $71,800,000,000 spending budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

One member of the congressional group noted that first news of the President's illness sent the stock market tumbling.

"It was a great day for selling short," the congressman remarked.

Eisenhower chuckled heartily and commented: "Yes, if only I could have known it."

The market bounced back as Eisenhower recovered and his doctors emphasized that the attack was not connected with previous more serious illnesses.

Eisenhower met his guests at 8 a.m. then ushered them into the dining room where the breakfast was served buffet style.

Eisenhower was getting back in the usual swing of things swiftly after spending an hour and 45 minutes at his desk yesterday morning. But he did decide against holding his regular weekly news conference today.

Young Miner Feared Dead

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP)—Workers dug through the night without reaching a 10-year-old miner trapped some 100 feet below the surface.

Hope grew dim that Frank Pufnock, buried in a fall of shale in this central Pennsylvania coal region yesterday morning, was still alive. Some 50 rescuers worked in one-hour shifts during the night. Only four to six men could dig in the narrow shaft.

The youth was loading a coal cart in the independent operation Holsuyuki (First Snow), has been owned by his father George when immortalized as a sacred horse at the great Ise shrine, Japan's leading Shinto shrine.

He was believed to have been buried beneath 30 to 50 tons of shale.

Eke's Valet Pays Official Call

Negro Church Group Is Received At White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—When Dwight D. Eisenhower resigned from the Army to run for president in 1952, Sgt. John Mooney, his devoted Negro valet—resigned too with this consoling word to his boss:

"Don't mind, general. We'll get along all right."

Well, they have gotten along all right—both of them. Eisenhower, of course, was elected and re-elected. And Mooney has been right at his side all the time, perhaps more than any man alive.

On the calling list it says: 11 a. m. A group from the Copper-ville, Md., African Methodist Episcopal Church will call on the President, Sgt. Mooney's Church.

So it's a proud day for John Mooney, who was 43 last Friday. A proud day because he was getting a chance to show off his boss to a group of friends from his home town on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay near Easton, Md.

Mooney, who lives with his wife Delores at the White House, is more than a valet to the President—much more. They are close friends.

But you can't find out from Mooney himself how he works with the President. You have to go to friends of Mooney around the White House to learn something about him.

"The sergeant has one hard, firm rule," says one of these friends. "He won't talk to reporters. Don't waste your time."

Actually, he will—a very little. He always has a pleasant greeting. That is about the size of it. He minds his own business.

Big Missile Explodes In Florida Test

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP) — A monster missile streaked two miles straight up yesterday, then exploded. Thousands of spectators were confident they had seen the Atlas take its first step toward intercontinental — and perhaps interplanetary — flight.

The test apparently miscarried. The Air Force in its terse announcement said the missile itself blew up shortly after it was launched.

An Air Force spokesman declined to say just where the huge rocket met mishap.

The Air Force and the Defense Department wouldn't say it was the Atlas. They wouldn't call it anything but "a missile," or say directly how it measured up to expectations.

However, the cigar-shaped sky-rocket was identified as the Atlas by informants whose past statements have proved 100 per cent accurate.

The Atlas was brought here a few days ago by special truck convey from San Diego, Calif., site of its manufacture. On hand for the firing were representatives of Convair Corp. and General Electric, which built the intercontinental ballistic missile. Observers who have seen previous versions of rocket blasts said this was not like any they'd seen.

The missile rose and burst in a fireball at 2:38 p.m. Ninety minutes later an Air Force spokesman said: "A missile was fired at the Air Force missile test center's Cape Canaveral launching site today. Shortly after the launching the missile exploded. There were no casualties."

Previous firings had been announced only days afterward.

The spokesman added that "valuable information was gained as a result of the test. Extensive flight testing of rocket missiles... has been going on for some time. These tests will be continued."

As an intercontinental ballistic missile, the Atlas at peak development would have a range of 5,000 miles and a speed that would take it to Moscow in 20 minutes.

Yesterday's missile attained an estimated height of only 10,000 feet—about two miles—before it disintegrated in an orange flash and a plume of black smoke.

GOP Leader Wins Battle

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Former Republican State Chairman P. Kenneth Peterson defeated incumbent Mayor Eric G. Hoyer yesterday in the Minneapolis city election.

Hoyer, the labor-endorsed candidate, was seeking his fifth full term as mayor and was considered a slight favorite.

Peterson, attorney and former state legislator, trailed at first but gained steadily.

Unofficial returns from all 198 precincts gave Peterson 66,589, and Hoyer 60,317.

Minneapolis elections are non-partisan.

U. S. Handed Girard Over To Japan To Pacify Them In Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has almost admitted it is handing GI William S. Girard over to the Japanese to pacify them and not because he was right or wrong in killing a Japanese woman.

On a firing range in Japan, where Japanese men and women had become a problem to American troops by wandering around to pick up empty shells to sell for scrap, the 21-year-old Girard was ordered to guard a machine gun.

He put an empty cartridge case in a grenade launcher and fired toward a woman scrap-hunter 30 yards away. It hit and killed her. Girard denied intending to kill her. He said he had only wanted to scare her away.

Denied Enticing Her

Some Japanese said he had encouraged the woman to come closer and then fired. He denied this. And the commanding general of his division certified Girard had acted in "performance of his duty." That's a key phrase in this story.

Yesterday in federal court, the administration—through U.S. Atty. Oliver Gasch—bore out what Girard's commanding general said. He, too, conceded Girard had acted in "performance of duty."

But Gasch—in a brief filed against efforts of Girard's family to get a federal judge to order the soldier returned to this country—said:

"The decision to let the Japanese have Girard was made by the administration 'in the conduct of foreign affairs and the military defense of the United States and as such is a political decision not subject to judicial review.'"

That's another way of saying the decision was made to retain good relations with the Japanese who are aroused over the case.

The United States has an agreement with the Japanese that if an American soldier violates Japanese law—but does it in "performance of his duty"—the United States will have jurisdiction. This means he normally would be tried by Army court-martial—not in a Japanese court.

The Japanese claimed Girard's action was not in "performance of his duty." The American Far East Command argued, and still does, that Girard was acting in "performance of duty." The Japanese insisted on trying Girard for the killing.

This dispute went on for months. Finally the Defense Department here ruled that if the Japanese insisted, they could have Girard. They insisted. The Far East Command announced May 16 the Japanese would get Girard.

The next day Secretary of Defense Wilson blocked this by saying he would review the case.

Pressures on the administration mounted. The Japanese protested. On Formosa a rioting Chinese sacked the American Embassy after a court-martial there freed an American soldier in the killing of a Chinese.

Word Not In Agreement

On June 4 the Defense and State departments issued a joint statement saying they approved letting the Japanese have Girard. "They didn't deny that what he did was in 'performance of duty'."

Instead they created a word which was not in the agreement at all. They said Girard's action which resulted in killing the woman had not been "authorized."

But the statement didn't attempt to give this as the reason for letting Girard be tried in a Japanese court instead of before an American court-martial.

What was the reason? It was this: Even though one side claims jurisdiction in a case like Girard's, if it wishes, yield that jurisdiction to the other. The statement of the Defense and State departments said the decision to yield jurisdiction was properly made and must be carried out "in order to preserve the integrity of the pledges of the United States."

Billy Graham's Crusade Draws Throngs In N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—The gate count at Billy Graham's New York crusade today totaled more than half a million in four weeks, and the big-city folk still are flocking to hear him nightly by the thousands.

"During this first month," Graham said last night, "we have seen God do great and marvelous things in this city."

The crusade, which the evangelist says has stirred the greatest response he has ever seen in his preaching around the world, still has more than another month to go. It's near the halfway mark.

No other event—circus, sporting spectacle or horse show—has ever been able to fill Madison Square Garden for such an extended period, but the turnout for Graham's sermons shows no signs of letting up.

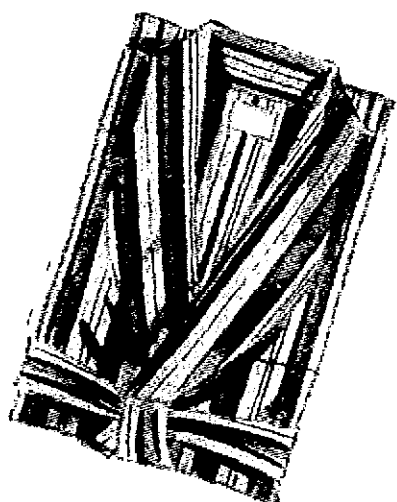

Attendance has averaged 18,000, almost capacity, since the start, a total of 501,000. Nearly 16,000 have stepped forward to begin what Graham calls "a new life of joy and peace in Christ."

Paratrooper Dies In Odd Air Mishap

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Medical authorities say an Iowa paratrooper suffocated during the more than three hours he dangled from a troop carrier plane over this military post yesterday.

Pfc. Wayne H. Flugum, 23, Leeland, Iowa, was dead when he was cut loose from the huge C123 transport as it skimmed only inches above a runway greased with foam to cut down possible injury.

During the preceding three hours, three crew members had worked valiantly to free Flugum, whose parachute became entangled in the static line left by previous jumpers during a routine airborne exercise.

The medical report said he had been dead from 30 minutes to two hours before his body was landed. But the report did not say whether the trooper suffocated from being entangled in his shroud lines, or from the force of slipstream air under the plane.

Flugum was about the 18th of some 36 paratroopers who jumped from the plane.

The crewmen almost pulled the pleading Flugum to safety once, but the slipstream pulled him from their grasp.

The White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, reported the President lost no weight during the illness, which first developed Sunday evening.

White House press Secretary James C. Hagerly said the three physicians who attended Eisenhower during this latest illness had concluded it was due to "overindulgence in some types of food." To put it another way, he had not been sticking to the diet on which he was put after his 1955 heart attack.

Youth Freed In Shooting Of Friend, 20

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—Because some detective work by the State Medical Examiner's Office turned up microscopic marks on a spent bullet, a Washington, D. C., youth was acquitted of manslaughter yesterday.

Francis X. Campanella, 19-year-old defendant, was charged in the March 31 fatal shooting of his friend, Paul B. Herbert, 20, also of Washington, as they played a game of "war" with 22 caliber rifles.

Dr. Sydney Katz, woman pathologist in the state office, did the detective work. She testified in Circuit court that the bullet carried the tiny marks on its base which matched the herringbone pattern of the victim's trousers. She also said a tiny tuft of the fabric was snagged on the bullet.

Dr. Katz said this showed that the bullet had ricocheted and spun end over end before striking Herbert—back end first.

Said Judge John B. Gray, who heard the case without a jury:

"The defendant cannot be held responsible for Paul's death, if he honestly fired his rifle in a safe area... If it struck an object and was deflected from its course, then it absolves him."

Riot Deaths Rise To Six

ALGIERS (AP)—Algiers' capital was returning slowly to normal today after wild anti-Moslem rioting by an enraged French population which left at least 5 dead and 37 injured.

Those were the casualty figures announced by French authorities. Other sources said at least 12 Arabs were killed and 50 other Moslems and Europeans were injured.

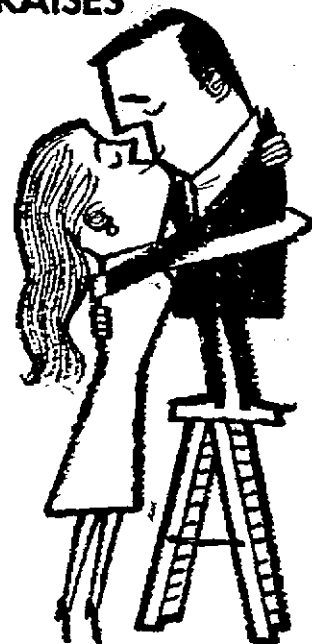

Police arrested at least 200 Frenchmen for taking part in the riots.

Time To 'Collect Thoughts' Delayed First Father's Day

By DAVE BOWEN

AP Newsfeatures

If it didn't take ministers so long to prepare sermons, Father's Day may have been celebrated on the first rather than the third Sunday in June.

The first Sunday in June of the year 1910 was June 5, the birthday of a man named William Smart. The woman who inspired the Father's Day we observe this year on June 16 had William Smart in mind when the idea came to her that fathers, like mothers, should get special familial tribute at least once a year.

William Smart was a Civil War veteran who reared his six children alone on a farm in eastern Washington after their mother died.

The only girl among those six children grew up to become Mrs. John Bruce Dodd. The idea for Father's Day, she has said, came to her one morning as she was washing dishes.

Man Never Misses Church In 56 Years

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — C. Snod Sharp went to a Baptist Sunday school on the first Sunday in March, 1901. Fifty-six years and 2,912 Sundays later he had not missed a Sunday. The first 12 years he attended First Baptist Church and thereafter College Hill Baptist.

"I just never think about it unless someone mentions it to me," Sharp said after 56 years of perfect attendance.

She spoke to her minister in Spokane about a special observance honoring fathers and he in turn took it up with the Spokane Ministerial Assn. The Spokane Young Men's Christian Assn. then entered the picture and put the Father's Day idea into motion.

Spokane, in 1910, was the first city to set aside a day for honoring fathers. Mrs. Dodd wanted the observance on Sunday June 5th, her father's birthday, but by the time the program received final approval there wasn't enough time for ministers to prepare sermons for June 5. Instead, the observance was delayed two weeks and held on the third Sunday in June.

Ever since, Father's Day has been celebrated on the third Sunday in June.

From the beginning in Spokane, the day of remembrance grew to national importance with President Woodrow Wilson having a Father's Day button pressed in the White House in 1916 and President Calvin Coolidge recommending national observance of Father's Day in 1924.

Mrs. Dodd still resides in Spokane. Her father, who provided the original Father's Day example, died in 1919—but not before Father's Day became a reality throughout the nation.

Engineers Union To Air Contract

A special meeting of Operating Engineers Local 37-B will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Allegheny Labor Temple, according to Harry L. Hickie, business agent.

Wages and working conditions in a new contract are to be discussed, with officials of the state union present.

Hickie urged all members to attend, saying Local 37-B is the only Building Trades union which has not reached a contract agreement.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Holding Its Place

EVERYONE knows the American coal industry was in a bad way a few years ago and has made a substantial comeback. What is remarkable, however, is the way the recovery was achieved, particularly in the light of the obstacles encountered. Coal's basic problem, of course, was the mounting competition from oil and natural gas. What the industry had to do was fight back in a period of soaring labor and material costs. Transportation expense, on an upward curve, was an especial handicap.

WAGES WERE eating up about 70 per cent of coal's selling price at the mine head. The wage hikes hammered out on the anvil of bitter negotiations proved a burden in the marketplace. The industry, divided into thousands of producers, had little money for research and cooperative effort in combating its competition. Despite all these barriers, men in the business set to work. Mergers were brought about among the better producers and many inefficient mines were closed down. The new combinations opened new, more highly mechanized mines. Their larger resources provided funds for research into further technical advances and additional market uses. Coal costs were sharply cut in the new pits. In consequence labor costs relative to mine prices dropped materially, and the market price of coal was held at about 1948 levels.

THE INDUSTRY found a wider foreign market at the same time it improved its domestic position. It never attained its old peaks, but it did take healthy strides forward. No one is sure how long the enlarged export market will endure, or what new ravages will be done upon the industry by the still energetic competition. But Americans who speak with pride of their country's free-wheeling spirit of enterprise cannot help but admire the dogged way in which a troubled industry has refused to yield but has instead fought to hold its place in the nation's economy.

Worm May Turn

PRESIDENT Woodrow Wilson once made a prophecy about our national future which has not been fulfilled, but which may yet come true for Russia. In the early days of the automobile he was impressed by the gap between the car owners and the pedestrians, the former bumptious and fond of displaying their new possession, given to nonchalant splashing of passersby. The latter he envisioned as envious of a privilege which they could not hope to enjoy. Here, he said, was the making of a class warfare which might do damage. Now practically everyone has a car, and there is no class distinction. In Russia only those with pull own automobiles, and the have-nots are beginning to be resentful. A Smolensk newspaper, which, like everything else in Russia, operates by consent of the government, printed a letter from three workers pleading for the manufacture of cheap, comfortable, economical cars for two or three persons. Other nations have them, they say; why not Russia? It is the old story; everything for heavy industry, little or nothing for the consumer. To paraphrase a familiar proverb, it is a long worm that has no turning. The Russian worm may be beginning to turn.

Going Far Enough

IT MAKES SENSE that the United States has joined the Military Committee set up by the Baghdad pact nations. This organization, including Britain, Turkey, Iran, Iraq and Pakistan, is the one solid core of defensive strength against communism that can be found in the Middle East. Since our policy, reasserted this year in the Eisenhower doctrine, is to help the nations of this area ward off communism, it is natural and proper that we should cooperate fully with the Baghdad group. Whether we should signalize our cooperation by actually joining the pact is a matter for debate. Apparently such formal action would annoy India and some of the Arab countries more than does the present arrangement. Inasmuch as existing ties serve almost as well as membership, to move the last stage would seem an unwise and unnecessary step.

Great Romance Grows Out Of Bleakness

HAWORTH, England—In other parts of Yorkshire, the sun shines warm on the buttercups and the lambs doze over luncheon on the greenest of grasslands. But you are a romanticist of the old tragic-passionate school, so you turn away from beauty, and pilgrimage instead to Haworth.

In this grim town of steep, cobblestone streets and weary-faced people, there is a window which frames a scene of unalleviated bleakness.

It is a second-story window, in a gray stone parsonage. Peering through it, from the inside, you see only this: A graveyard so crowded with massive tombstones that the coarse grass and weeds are choked between them; and around it, a horizon wall of purple moors shrouded in darker clouds.

Here, behind the window in a room only large enough for a cradle, chair and tiny desk, the parson's daughter, Emily Bronte, wrote "Wuthering Heights." If, at a young and impressionable age, you have read that masterpiece from a young woman's brooding imagination and been properly chilled by it, then this trip to Haworth may be one of the most exciting of your life.

EMILY BRONTE, aged 25, never having had the love of a man and living in a small world composed of a cemetery and 150 miles of hills, began to create here upon a rosewood desk the fierce love story.

Some regard it as a literary jewel, others as soap opera clothed in poetry—but whatever the comment on the novel itself, the remarkable imagination of the author cannot be questioned when you stroll the lonely, narrow paths Emily loved and feared, with changing mood and weather.

In the bedroom of Haworth parsonage, there still are scribbles on the wall—notes and penciled pictures done by Emily and her sisters, Charlotte and Anne, as infants.

NEXT TO THE "nursery" is the larger bedroom of her brother, Branwell Bronte, a handsome alcoholic whose passionate ravings against life in the moors is believed to have inspired the character of Heathcliff.

Directly below these rooms, down a steep wood staircase, is the parlor of the Rev. Patrick Bronte. It was private, used for thoughtful church and domestic business, and the children were never allowed to enter except "by invitation or for matters of importance." It was considered a matter of some importance when Emily died in the parlor, of consumption, during a December storm, aged thirty. But her book, published the year before, had not yet been appreciated.

THE GREAT desolate mansion of "Wuthering Heights" was Emily Bronte's mind elaborating on an old ancestral home called "Thrushfield"—but you cannot reach it without a guide, and the people of Haworth do not like to visit it, as Emily did. It is a derelict house, half blown away by the winds of the moor, and its location is roughly 1,400 feet higher than the parsonage—through scrub and marshland.

Nothing much has changed in the nature of Haworth, the people claim, since the Bronte sisters lived there and died there, between 1820 and 1861. Even in summer, it still manages to be the sternest site in an otherwise beautiful and bountiful countryside.

Charlotte Bronte wrote, "My sister Emily loved the moors—flowers brighter than the rose bloomed in the backest of the heath for her."

As you look through her window, you are awed that such an imagination ever could have flourished here.

People Object To Ike's Plans, Solons Hold

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—It's time to drag out the old box score again to see how Congress is doing.

Excepting the House of Representatives' record in passing 11 appropriation bills that would bring next year's budget by four billion dollars, there isn't anything to brag about.

In the first five months of 85th Congress operations, action has been completed on only 45 public laws which have been signed by President Eisenhower. Only a few are important.

This record is so poor that Republican Minority Leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts says Congress will still be here Aug. 15.

But that's only 10 weeks away and the session is two-thirds gone.

If this Congress does as well as the last session, it will have to move about nine times as fast as it has been going. For 100 public laws were enacted in both 1955 and 1956.

Democratic congressional leaders came back from their Easter vacation considerably burned up by charges that they had a "Do-Nothing" record at mid-session. But in April, Congress completed action on only 16 public laws and in May cut it to fifteen.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—There seems to be a good deal of backing and filling in New York these days because two of the three Major League baseball teams operating out of here imply that they may transfer themselves to Los Angeles and to San Francisco. Everyone concerned is playing things with cagey tactics more suited to a poker game than to a straightforward business deal.

AS A MAN who has never been able to sit through more than six innings of baseball at one time in his life, perhaps this reporter can suggest a milder and less mystifying approach to the question.

Organized, professional baseball is a business in which, hopefully, each club makes some money by the end of the season. Each club is a corporation in which stock is held and the value of this stock goes up or down according to how well that club's commodity, baseball, is selling.

NEW YORK is divided into two camps, both emotional. One camp yells that it doesn't really care whether the Dodgers and the Giants go to California or not. The other camp yells that if either or both go to California it will be a disaster comparable to slaughter and heartbreak.

Which is, of course, utter foolishness. It is nothing of the sort. It is nothing more than the hating, moving or selling of any business place.

No one thus far has been able to shuck his emotions and approach the problem with icy realism. If someone did, he would ask three questions:

Is the club making money at home?

Would the new locale make more money?

Would a new stadium, paid for out of taxpayers' money, positively make each club a profitable thing?

IF THE majority of Brooklyn's citizens are so hotly devoted to their club, why don't they support it? If the majority of Manhattan's citizens love the Giants so blazingly, why don't they support them?

The cold truth is that baseball is losing its hold on the populace by the year and no amount of thumping and wailing can change that. It's a dwindling sport, Little League and other artificial pumps, notwithstanding.

The other frilly kicking the life out of professional baseball is television. People have discovered that you don't need to take the trouble of going out to the ball game. You can see it for free at home or in a cafe.

In the latter circumstance, it isn't quite for free. Common decency and courtesy sort of demand that you buy yourself at least a glass of beer for the privilege of seeing the televised game and munching on the bar pretzels. If you take much more than beer, you won't be able to see the game on TV by the end of six innings, anyway.

EVEN BEFORE TV came along to make watching baseball more easy and comfortable, it was apparent that baseball was withering in public affection. Not greatly, but discernibly.

The two clubs in question are using threats to move away as a lever to compel the city to build new stadia for them, bigger and better stadia. Why shouldn't they build their own?

What great attraction is baseball to any city that the taxpayer should have to dig down to pay for an incorporated, profit-making business? They don't build stadia for ice skaters or tennis players, both of whom sell tickets, too.

I DOUBT THAT either Los Angeles or San Francisco is any better a locale than New York or Brooklyn. There aren't that many rabid fans in either city. Bu, in the end, when the final chips are down, if either of both move to California, I feel that New York will survive. People will go to work, sit in parks, visit museums, ride the subways and have children, just as they did when the clubs were here.

I don't think it would hurt New York a lick to lose both teams and you could even let the Yankees wander to some other city without making a permanent scar on the City of New York.

The gritty, hard fact is—the town is sort of outgrowing baseball. (McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Costly To Open Car Window

WASHINGTON — It is pleasing to learn that the manufacturers of motor cars have decided to quit advertising how fast their products will travel.

Now, if they'll kindly quit installing speedometers that register up to 120 miles per hour, I'll be grateful. The trouble, fellows, is that I am a suspicious young man. I don't believe any sedan on the road today will go 120 miles an hour.

So the temptation always is there to step down on the gas and see how much of a liar that speedometer is. I have not yet done this in my own behemoth (it is an underpowered old model, with only 275 horsepower), but some day I probably will, and wind up in jail. The speedometer with the teasing figures on the right side of the dial will be my undoing.

WHILE WE'RE on the subject of speed, I might add that I question whether today's cars are much faster than the old-timers. In 1921 my father bought in St. Louis a maroon-colored touring car, called an Auburn Beauty Six, with a really powerful motor. The advertisements said it delivered 65 horsepower.

The Auburn Beauty's speedometer only registered up to 90 miles an hour, but one afternoon I remember going out Clayton Road and tramping down hard. That needle wavered over as far as it would go, and the sensation was like flying through a cloud bank. There were bumps.

I took my foot off the accelerator shortly and I question to this day whether I actually was traveling 90 miles an hour. I think that speedometer had a hocus-pocus adjustment, and I hear tell that many a present-day speedometer also registers too fast at high speeds. A little accuracy on the dashboard, gentlemen is what I want.

MY PRESENT car, the 1955 model with only 275 horsepower, got up to 80 miles an hour once on a turnpike, but I frankly doubt if it will go much faster. The engine, though, is a whopper. You never did see so much ironmongery under a hood.

Net effect is that at steady speeds of around 40 miles an hour, I get about 12 miles to the gallon of gas. The Auburn Beauty Six of 36 years ago did better; it used to average about twenty.

So if we're not going to emphasize speed and power during the 1958 model year, gentlemen, maybe you'd consider whipping up a car with a little engine of maybe 65 horses. You might also make this motor a low-compression.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield is always complaining he has to handle too much mail for the amount of money Congress gives him. But nevertheless he's now trying to induce Americans to write letters to perfect strangers all over the world.

The P.M.G. is a gregarious fellow and probably loves to drop cheery lines to people. But this time he seems to be taking in too much territory. He announced that Oct. 6-12 has been set aside as International Letter Writing Week. He urged that everybody take pen in hand, or amanuensis on knee, and get off a letter to somebody somewhere.

Mr. Summerfield said he will put up posters in his 38,000 post offices promoting the project. He has written a letter himself in connection with the event. This should come as definite reassurance to many Congressmen. They were beginning to be afraid the Postmaster General couldn't read or write; or, at least, couldn't do simple arithmetic.

MR. SUMMERFIELD's letter, which he avers is positively not ghost-written, reads:

"A personal letter is, next to an actual visit, the most intimate means we have of communicating with our fellow human beings. Letters between people of different nations therefore are a sure method of establishing friendly relationships and understandings. . . . For these reasons I urge all citizens to take an active part in the 'people-to-people' program by corresponding with individuals in other countries."

I think I will take the P.M.G.'s advice and write to somebody on Formosa. I feel they'd rather hear from me than have me pay them a visit.

WASHINGTON odds and ends, mostly odd:

Rep. Alfred D. Sieminski, of New Jersey, has been hobnobbing through the halls of Congress with his left foot in a cast. The 45-year-old legislator is beginning to feel he may be giving too much of himself to the Democratic baseball team.

In the 1951 game with the Republicans, he hit a two-bagger and slid into second base on his spectacles, causing himself some embarrassing cuts. In 1952 he clouted another double and wrenched his knee. In 1953, he pinched a single and sprained his right leg. At spring training in Daytona, Fla., last month he hit a double and sprained his left foot. He is tempted to play it safe from now on and just strike out.

Senator John Sparkman, of Alabama, went dog-walking with his three-year-old grandson, Ty Shepard. The child kept a tight leash on his white poodle. A woman came along and gushed: "What a sweet little doggie! Is it a little boy or a little girl?" Disdainfully replied young Master Shepard: "It's a dog."

REP. LEO O'BRIEN, of New York, has just had this last piece of mail sent to him from a young lady constituent: "Six months I have been trying to get together enough money to buy a new girdle, but I can't because of my high taxes. I realize taxes are the foundation of our government, but I need a foundation too." She signed herself "Your Misspenned Neighbor."

At a hearing of the House Public Works Subcommittee on Tennessee Valley Authority financing, the first witness was scheduled to be Andrew Biemiller, lobbyist for the AFL-CIO. But Walter H. Sammis, president of the Ohio Edison Co., asked Biemiller if he would yield his place. The union official inquired why.

"Because," replied the tycoon, "I must get back to Akron. I have just received word that your people are picketing my plant."

'Duh Law' Must Be Firm, Alert In Migrant Camps

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of four articles on migrant labor in the Mid-Atlantic states. Today's installment deals with community problems resulting from the influx of the migrant workers.

By CHARLES L. STAFFORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Duh Law" regarded the row of empty shacks, soon to swell with a countless number of migrant farm laborers, and summed up the enforcement problem ahead of him on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

"I have to live with them on weekends," said Howard Smith, investigator for the State's attorney of Dorchester County.

"I haven't had a vacation in three summers. Can't afford to take one."

"On weekends I go from camp to camp. That's the only way you can keep peace. And when you go in a camp, you go in roaring. If you're too meek, they'll run right over you."

He stopped his car in the center of a labor camp beside a dance pavilion, easily the soundest structure around. Alongside it an old oil drum overflowed with empty beer cans and liquor bottles.

Smith pointed behind one of the living cubicles where empty packing crates circled a hard-packed spot of earth.

"That's where they shoot crap," he said. "When my car turns in off the road they holler 'duh law' and take off through the woods."

This camp is one of the worst, said Smith. It is not maintained by a canner or growers group. Privately operated, it caters to the "freewheelers," or drifters.

Still Some Trouble

But even in another camp, maintained and supervised by the Dorchester County Truck Growers Assn., there is occasional trouble.

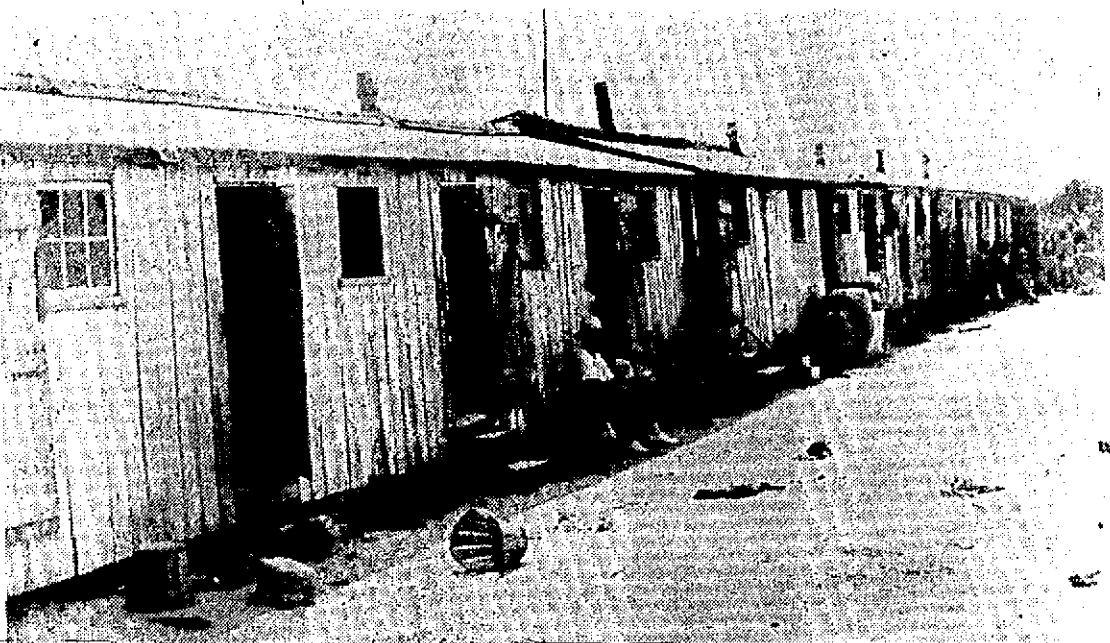

"We had a killing here last year," Smith said as he turned into the one-time prisoner-of-war encampment. "The jury called it justifiable homicide, and I guess it was. A fellow killed another one who had poured lye down a girl's throat."

Liquor is the No. 1 problem in the camps, in Smith's opinion. It isn't homemade booze, but the beer, wine and whisky some sharpie buys in town and sells in the camps at higher than normal prices without benefit of a license.

"The workers a lot happier after we raid the camps and dry them out," he said. "There is a lot less trouble."

The story is the same among lawmen wherever you ask.

"Ninety per cent of the Dorchester County jail's summer trade is migratory," said Deputy Sheriff Joseph Klogg.

CAMP SCENE—Shown, above, is a typical migrant workers' camp. This one is in Dorchester County. Baskets on ground in

A state policeman at Dover, Del. said, "We allow no troopers off on weekends for two reasons—speeders and migrants. We handle maybe 70 to 75 complaints from labor camps in a typical weekend."

Difficult To Solve

Sheriff A. Raymond Carroll of Talbot County said migrant cases are usually difficult to solve. The migrants harbor some strange loyalty which forbids their opening their mouths to outsiders about their escapades.

In the magistrate's courts, where the minor cases come to trial, the pattern is pretty much routine: Get ride of the offenders. "The migrant poses a real problem," said Magistrate Charles F. Kent for 34 minutes cost the county about $16,000. She was given life in prison after driving into the area and stabbing another migrant, a man.

Wall Street Hears...

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street Hears:

Current strong upward trend in sales coupled with recent price increases should help 1957 earnings of Lilly Tulip Cup make a favorable comparison with the $3.88 per share earned in 1956.

It isn't only the law enforcement officers who recoil at the word migrant. So do hospital administrators and doctors.

Consider James Walker, a migrant who listed Hendersonville, N. C., as his home town.

Walker was riding a truck into Dorchester County last year when it swerved suddenly against a bridge, cutting off his leg.

He had no money, no insurance, and was not eligible for county or state welfare aid. Several months in a Cambridge, Md., hospital ran his bill to $2,000. It never was paid.

"canned heat" and started the fire himself.

Money was obtained from somewhere to buy him a ticket out of town.

Harold P. Coston, administrator of the Cambridge-Maryland Hospital, said: "Hardly a night goes by without two or three cases in the emergency room. We know the average migrant case costs $100 to $150."

State's Atty. C. Barnard Mace of Dorchester County complained of another problem. Some of the more carefree migrants mingle with local women and take off at the end of the season leaving pregnant women behind them.

Support of the unwed mothers and their fatherless children falls on the county. It is virtually impossible to trace the men, Mace said.

Most of the problems are laid at the elusive doorstep of the free-wheelers, migrants who wander about aimlessly, looking for work, rather than the regularly recruited workers. But there is a fair amount of trouble in the camps of the recruited ones. Puerto Ricans cause the least trouble. There are few women among them, and they know that if they cause trouble, they won't be allowed to return for next year's harvest.

These are the community problems spawned by the necessity for the nomadic farm workers. But what of the migrant? He has problems, too.

Tomorrow: The problems of the migrant.

Identification Made Of Fatally Hurt Man

The body of a man found dead on the Western Maryland Railway yesterday morning near Connellsville was identified by a friend last night in a Pittsburgh funeral home.

The man killed while apparently trying to board a freight train was Felix Visnesky, 45, of Grindstone, Pa., according to Lt. Bernard Beaky, of the Western Maryland's Western Division police force.

Area Funeral Directors Hold Conference Here

State and Tri-State area funeral directors met here last night at the All-Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Dr. Russell Fisher, Baltimore, chief medical examiner for the State of Maryland, spoke.

Some 50 officers and members of the Maryland State Funeral Directors, and the Tri-State Eastern Panhandle and Somerset County funeral directors attended the meeting.

Representing the state association, which held its quarterly meeting during the Cumberland visit, were Charles E. Schinnek, president; Frank H. Newell, first vice president; J. Edwin Fline, second vice president; and Charles E. Delosier, all of Baltimore. With them were about 15 members from the Baltimore area.

The Tri-State Funeral Directors Association was represented by Bryon Kight, president; John O. Durst, secretary-treasurer, and 15 members.

Heading the Eastern Panhandle association delegation were Blaine Schaffer, Petersburg, president, and Keith Shaffer, Romney, secretary-treasurer.

The Somerset County delegation of 11 included Camden Meek, Johnstown, Pa., president;

The Bald Boy-8

He Gets Stern Lesson In Hair Hygiene

By ELMER WHEELER

Poor old Elmer. I was feeling sorry for myself. Here I had gained national attention by knocking off 40 pounds as the original Fat Boy, and the insurance folks said I had added 10 years to my life line.

But who wants to add 10 years to his life line if he hasn't added anything to his hair line?

The minute you took off your hat and the girls saw your moth-eaten hair circling a bald spot, or even a gigantic V, like mine was getting, well, you looked like an old buck trying to be young in bow tie and convertible.

Now I don't go with bald heads. Nor convertibles! Maybe I did need that psycho-somatic treatment right now, on the couch doc.

But I was still determined. I had found fat comes from calories. I must find out what less of hair comes from. Mine in particular.

So I went back to my doc and told him of my visit to Peter J. Michael and his story on chromosomes and genes.

"The boy's got a good head," said the doc. "He hasn't much on top of it, but lots inside it."

Then he set out telling me about hair cleanliness and its relation to falling hair.

It seems there is a feeling along to-be-bald boys that washing the hair too much washes it off the noggin into the sewer.

The doc told me that if the sebaceous glands, out of which comes the hair, get clogged up it is like clogging up the sink. He drew me a fine picture of a tiny bulb out of which came a long, thin hair up a long, thin gland.

"Who put that ring around the wash basin?"

"That tract must be kept open and clear and not filled up with dirt, grease, dandruff or some of that fancy stuff you put on your head that seals in these tiny openings."

Cleanliness, he says, gives the hair a chance to strut its stuff if it has the food backing (which mine did), and hasn't been "touched" by the bad gene to start with.

"How about that moth-eaten hole in the back of my head?"

clogs pores. That many people with dandruff put on fancy greases that cement the dandruff to the head, and clog up the hair pipes even more.

He told me that dandruff is the skin peeling itself, so to speak, and that the entire body sheds dandruff but only the hair catches it and holds it, until it drops onto a blue suit. Otherwise, we'd never notice the "dandruff" on our hands or nose.

He said dandruff was not a disease as many people thought. Just skin shedding.

I need not be concerned about dandruff, he said, unless I had a skin disease of some sort and then he, or a good dermatologist, could see about curing it.

He informed me that it is necessary to clean away the dirt, germs, dandruff and excessive oils to promote a healthy balance between the secretions of the sebaceous glands.

That the scalp must not be too dry—or too oily, either.

I must admit that in my home-made campaign to save my hair, I had rubbed on inches of every-thing from bear grease and petroleum jellies to candle wax, sulphur, and fancy smelling, expensive things marked Bottle X.

Most any germ, disease or ailment had a fine roosting place in layers of oil on my noggin.

"That, son, is what may have caused that moth hole in your hair," he advised. "Although I have an idea it may be an emotional disturbance or a skin ailment, but we will come to that in turn."

The guy was hopeful. He kept me hopeful, a good rule in any salesmanship. Keep 'em hopeful.

I left doc's office feeling just a little better. I planned to really do a washing job on my hair.

That night I was surprised at the oil that washed off. I was feeling good until the wife yelled

Cut-Rate Fines Offered Drivers

PARIS — (INS) — If you get a traffic ticket in France you can settle it with a "cut-rate" fine.

It will save you the time and trouble of going to court.

The Official Journal, recorder of all French laws and decrees, says you can pay 900 francs (about $235) to settle on the spot a misdemeanor that would cost you up to 1,800 francs (about $450) in fines if taken to court.

The same 50 per cent discount is available on fines up to 36,000 francs (about $102).

Mary Haworth's Mail

Editor's Note: Irritable man says wife sacrifices dignity, trying to look years younger.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am an irritated husband, concerned about a mature age woman, who cannot face middle age, and now pretends she is 10 years younger. She has changed the color of her hair and started painting wide eyebrows — and looks silly.

What advice can you give, to help a woman past her youth, to accept the reality of her years and make the most of them, rather than try to hide them? How can she be convinced that it is better to be a woman of distinction, than fast-and-foolish looking? Very truly yours, — R. D.

He's Ignorant Of Life And Women

DEAR R. D.: Considering your complaint in its deeper implications, one would have to blame life itself for being a vital drive, instead of blaming your wife for trying to meet the onslaught of age with banners lying.

It is a healthy characteristic of wholesome spirited women, at any age, to try to maintain the best face on things. Look how they perennially (more or less) paint, paper, polish, slip-cover and generally toil at keeping the household premises in clean-up condition — waging a valiant war on the fading-and-scarring results of daily living.

Surely it is unfair to expect a valiant woman to change her nature just because she is confronted by middle age. Don't be a kill-joy spouse!

In her own way, your wife is trying to accept the reality of her years, and she isn't running from signs of age, nor taking the path of least resistance. She is doing something about it, perhaps not what another woman of different type might do; but what her own "love-of-living" suggests, as tonic to her morale.

Different Types React Differently

The introvert-type woman, the habitual deep thinker, may choose to be heroic about coming age, in the sense of letting face and figure go, and trying to concentrate on the supposed compensations of eternal non-physical values — philosophical consolations, you know. Whereas the extrovert type, who construes life to be pretty much what she sees, is going to concern herself with appearances, here and now — when "age begins to show."

In any case, deeply ingrained self-respect — the sense of being loved and valued for oneself — is the greatest aid to growing old gracefully. It is this feeling that imparts dignity to personality and affords the "air of distinction" you profess to admire. But wonder how much support you give your wife on this score?

His Criticism Frightens Her

The irritable tone of your letter suggests that it is your habit and predisposition to criticize, find fault and generally depress your wife's self-regard. And this unkind bias may be spurring her (unconsciously) to hasty measures, in painting on a false gaiety, to hide her worry that love may fail her altogether.

My advice is to envelop your wife in warm-hearted courteous admiration. Throw a mantle of loving-kindness about her. Pay her compliments, on her gaiety, gallantry, youthful spirit, etc.; and on her natural good looks — which need no gilding, you may tell her; at least, not in your estimation.

When she finds herself securely honored in this knightly fashion, her extremist use of cosmetics should fade automatically — because she will no longer feel the anxiety that drives her to it. — M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of The Evening Times.

Accidents in the U.S. decrease in the Spring, but June is the peak month for injuries and fatalities.

SUPERINTENDENT — Rev. Dr. Paul F. Warner, above, new superintendent of the Hagerstown District of the Methodist Church, is expected at Centre Street Methodist Church here tonight when a reception is held for the new pastor, Rev. Carlton M. Harris, and the assistant pastor, Rev. Paul Conley, and their families. Dr. Warner is minister of Eutaw Methodist Church, Baltimore, and succeeds Dr. Harry C. Marsh who is retiring. The new superintendent has been a minister, missionary to Japan and a professor at Westminster Theological Seminary, Born in Salisbury, Dr. Warner was educated in Maryland public schools. He earned his A.B. degree from Western Maryland College in 1918 and his S.T.B. degree from Westminster Theological Seminary in 1921. This seminary also awarded him a doctor of divinity degree in 1938. Dr. Warner has done post graduate study in Greek, Hebrew, Sanskrit and Archeology at Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Warner is married to the former Dorothy P. Linthicum. They have four children: Paul, David, John and Mary Ellen.

Kiwanians To Hear Talk By Lawrence

William P. Lawrence, director of public relations for the North Branch plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, will be the speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at noon tomorrow at Central YMCA.

Lawrence will discuss the progress being made and production plans for the local plant.

Van der Rohe

Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, called one of the world's great modern architects, is director of the architecture department at Illinois Institute of Technology at Chicago.

How to buy a whole-home air conditioner for as little as $10 a month

Amazing? True! Your monthly purchase payments for Servel's whole-home Gas Air Conditioner are about the same as the monthly payments on a one-room air conditioner. You simply install it as part of your new home and pay for it on the mortgage.

Imagine! Servel's new Gas unit heats and cools your entire house. And BECAUSE it's Gas, monthly cooling costs are much less than any other system. Gas air conditioning is quieter, too. There's no compressor to make noise... no moving parts to get out of order in the cooling system. You get a 5-year guarantee — and dependable Gas Company service. Convenient terms available.

Servel's GAS Year-'Round Air Conditioner does 6 jobs: heats in the winter... cools in summer... cleans the air... removes moisture on hot days... circulates the air... ventilates with outside air.

SEE YOUR LOCAL GAS COMPANY TODAY FOR MORE INFORMATION

Former Resident, Wife Get Oregon Degrees

Robert E. Bennett Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bennett, LaVale, received a bachelor of science degree at the University of Oregon commencement exercises Sunday.

His wife, Mrs. Evelyn Bennett, formerly of Eugene, Ore., also received a degree in elementary education at the commencement.

Redwoods

A redwood tree may be taller than the Statue of Liberty, weigh more than 2,000,000 pounds, and contain enough wood to build several houses but it grows from a seed little bigger than the head of a pin.

Auto Dispute Resumes

Court action in the disputed sale of a woman's auto by her husband continues in Allegany County Circuit Court.

William Gulick, trading as Gulick's Auto Exchange, 337 South Centre Street, brought a $2,500 damage suit against Charles Walters, now an inmate in the Maryland House of Correction, and Mrs. Anna A. McGinn, 11 Washington Street, Frostburg.

The suit, filed by Attorney John M. Robb, states that on January 28 Walters sold to Gulick a 1955 model automobile, for which he received $1,000 and a 1951 model automobile. The title appeared to have been properly assigned by a judgement in favor of Mrs. Myrtle H. Walters to her husband.

Dial Service Being Expanded Here

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company is expanding direct distance dialing and is working to eliminate accidental toll calls, Robert G. Garner, local manager, has announced.

Garner said effective July 14 this area will be added to the list of other Maryland communities that can be dialed from one and two-party telephones.

At the present time only a few cities and towns in the state can be reached by direct dialing. When the installation of new equipment is completed at the local dial center, 90 cities and towns in Maryland may be reached from Cumberland by direct dialing.

The additional equipment also will provide for direct dialing to 120 cities and towns in nine states. Different methods will be used in dialing local and long distance numbers. Once the new equipment is put into use the only calls subscribers will dial on a two-letter, five-number basis will be those to Parkview 2 and 4, Redwood 8, ROger 7, COLony 4, DAVenport 4, and GREENleaf 8 telephones.

What To Wear

New Summer Fun Hats Go To A Male's Head

SOME FUN, HEY BOYS? Two examples of new "fun hats" for a man's summer leisure are the Beach Panama with batik band (left) and the Capree Raffia with braid band.

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Nothing, after all, is sacred. It used to be that there were a few fields that men had exclusively, without any encroaching females. Gradually, the girls have been invading them, one by one, and now the last stronghold has fallen.

And this last stronghold is jokes-about-hats. Women were the only sex to wear silly hats. And a man could say something witty, like "What happened—did a fruit salad fall on you?" But now along comes "fun hats" for men and, boom, down goes this final fortress.

Fun hats—some manufacturers simply call them novelty straws—are wild and zany and impractical. But that's what they're supposed to be. They're designed for leisure hours, when the wild and zany and impractical are highly sensible.

They're comfortable and easy to wear. It doesn't matter if they're an eighth-of-an-inch over the right ear or not.

They're free of inhibitions. Colors like fire engine red and sky blue and shrimp pink are available, along with dreary old browns and grays. Some have huge feathers and some have big, sloppy brims and some have gaudy bands.

They're fun to wear. That's the main thing. If you're out fishing or golfing or gardening or just relaxing and feel the need of some covering for your delicate little head, a fun hat beats wearing a plain hat of any kind.

Of course, if you wear one, you do so with the full knowledge that some gal is going to make a witty remark, like "Oh, say, Bessie, you do look chic." But never mind. They're just getting even for 75 years of fruit salad.

Father's Day (June 16) is often a pretty grim day for Dad. If he hasn't dropped a few constructive hints, he's liable to wind up with a gift he can't stand.

In this connection, any mothers or wives or daughters planning a gift for father might pay attention to the result of a survey conducted by a man's magazine (True). It asked 2,500 subscribing fathers what they would most like to receive.

NLRB Ballot Due June 19 At Plate Glass Firm Here

Electrical workers at the North Branch plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company will have three choices in a National Labor Relations Board election scheduled there next Wednesday.

The election will be held at the temporary office building of the plant.

Balloting will be from 7:30 to 8:30 a. m. and from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m. for all electricians and helpers on the plant payroll as of May 12.

The electricians will have three bargaining agent choices: The United Glass and Ceramics Workers of North America, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, both AFL-CIO, or neither union.

The NLRB ordered the election last month to allow electrical

Groups Clash On Future Use Of Canal Area

U. S. Service Head
Favors Park Along
Section Of Waterway

WASHINGTON — Maryland and federal government officials joined battle today on future use of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal area along the Potomac River.

Conrad Wirth, director of the National Park Service, told a Senate Interior subcommittee his agency favors establishment of a national historical park along the canal.

Joseph Kaylor, speaking for the Maryland Commission of Forestry and Parks, replied with an expression of "unalterable opposition" to the historical park bill as introduced by Sen. Beall (R-Md.).

Not Explicit Enough
Kaylor told a committee headed by Sen. Murray (D-Mont.) that the commission felt the bill is "not explicit enough."

He referred specifically to a section which would authorize construction of a parkway on the Maryland side of the river along the upper reaches of the pre-revolutionary canal which stretches from Washington to Cumberland, Md.

Kaylor said references to the section of parkway—which Wirth argued would provide a scenic drive—were not detailed enough in proposed usage and locations.

Kaylor urged that the Park Service and the State join in working out plans for development of the canal area before any final action is taken.

"We are defending the interests of the people of Maryland," he declared, "and we feel that a plan should be pinpointed to show what the plans are."

Not Up To Committee
His statements brought comment from Murray that "I don't believe a plan should be the burden of the committee . . . It would not be easy for us to sit around this committee table and draft a program. It should be done by experts for Maryland and the Park Service."

Wirth in arguing for the bill declared it would provide for preservation and modest development of the canal property. He said it would provide "for public enjoyment and for the construction of the proposed parkway along the crest of the very scenic Town Hill Ridge, from which magnificent views may be had of the Potomac gorge and the surrounding country. Access to overlook points closer to the gorge could be provided, if they should prove desirable."

He gave no further details on proposed location of the scenic parkway which brought the sharp opposition from Kaylor.

Use For Recreation
Wirth also testified that the Park Service feels that "numerous places" along the canal and river should be used for recreation development "consistent with the preservation of the canal's historic and scenic values."

But, he said "our planning has not progressed to the point . . . that it can be stated what sites are most desirable for such emphasis; nor can it be stated what recreational facilities should be provided at each site."

He said that generally the recreation sites would include as "a minimum" picnic and camp sites, and added that the Park Service's park development program could provide seven million dollars for development of the canal area.

Economic Benefits
Wirth also argued that by increasing attractiveness of the area to visitors, development of the historical park would "be of substantial economic benefit to the people who reside in or near communities along the general route of the canal." He said the "additional stimulus" to economy from "such an influx of visitors" would be "difficult to calculate but . . . it would be very substantial."

Beall, in a statement to the committee, said the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal area "lends itself most appropriately to national park status."

The bill, he said, "does not permit wholesale purchase and sale of lands by the (Interior) Department, as it is limited to a total area of 15,000 acres of land."

State Board Opposes
The Maryland Board of Natural Resources is opposing construction of a parkway connection between Maryland 51, near Paw Paw, W. Va., and the Long Ridge Road, near Woodmont, Md. The bill would provide for the parkway connection as a part of the C & O park.

Representatives of the board and others opposing the proposal arranged to appear in opposition to the bill at a hearing before a Senate Interior subcommittee.

The board went on record Monday against the proposed parkway connection.

Lester N. Townner of Towson, Md., said such a road would be an "iron curtain" between Maryland and the Maryland-owned Potomac River. He said it would result in the State losing control of the Potomac.

Favors Another Plan
Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, named as one of the board's representatives at today's hearing, said he favors an alternative plan to have the government return the canal to Maryland.

SUPERINTENDENT BLOCKADE—Activities of the local chapter of Sidewalk Superintendents were diminished this morning when workmen of the Hazelwood Construction Company erected a barricade along the south side of the Baltimore Street bridge. Many viewers have been attracted to the site where Hazelwood crews are constructing massive wooden bents to support a temporary bridge, and other workers are completing the concrete foundations and walls of Wills Creek in connection with the flood control project. The barricade was erected to insure against accidents to passersby while cranes were moved to the work. The temporary bridge will carry light traffic while a new bridge is being built.

Kelley Weighs Decision On Accepting Liquor Post

To be or not to be.
That is the apparent question in the mind of Del. Estel C. Kelley as he weighs the matter of accepting a six-year term on the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Commissioners.

This morning Del. Kelley said he had no comment to make at this time, but "might have around the first of next week."

Yesterday, the office of Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert informed Governor McKeldin's office in an informal opinion that under the law the liquor board must elect its own chairman.

Del. Kelley was appointed by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin several weeks ago to succeed Walter C. Capper, whose term was expiring.

Del. Kelley has not qualified for the position. His commission has remained unclaimed in the office of the Allegany County clerk of court. He has until June 30 to pick it up.

The governor's office was asked by State Sen. Charles M. See, it is reported, to obtain a ruling on whether the governor's appointment was as chairman of the liquor board.

Del. Kelley failed to attend a meeting of the board June 4 at which Stanley O. Hamilton was named chairman.

The third member of the board is Howard M. Vandegrift, Democrat. Both Del. Kelley and Hamilton are Republicans.

The next meeting of the liquor board will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Court House.

Baptist Bible School Opens

First Baptist Vacation Bible School began today with registration.

Rev. A. C. Prevaille who is principal, said classes will be held daily from 9 a. m. to noon through June 25.

Mrs. Ray Hammer and Mrs. A. C. Prevaille lead the Beginner Department. Beginners will be studying "Helping In God's World."

The Primary Children are being led by Mrs. Harry Lucas, Mrs. Herman Leasure and Mrs. Richard Kirsch. "Meeting Bible Friends" is the theme.

Juniors are led by Mrs. John Creagan, Rev. Prevaille, Mrs. Robert Young, Mrs. Kathleen Markwood and Robert Young. Juniors are studying the book, "Living for Jesus Every Day."

Mrs. Richard Mallick, J. H. Judy, Mrs. Janet Spence and Mrs. Earl Grass are leaders for the Intermediate Department. They are studying "Discovering What God Is Like."

Miss Roseann Weber is the pianist. Miss Helen Hixenbaugh, secretary; Mrs. Emma Darr, Mrs. Dorothy Shaner, Mrs. Glenn Corder and Mrs. Henry Humphreys in charge of refreshments.

Commencement will be held Tuesday night, June 25. A program will be staged by pupils.

Thomas V. Hoggard Gets Degree From University

Thomas Vernon Hoggard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoggard, 127 Race Street, was graduated Saturday from the University of Maryland with a bachelor of science degree in business and public administration.

He is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and attended the University of Richmond for two years.

Hoggard has accepted a position with the duPont Company and will reside in Richmond.

GRADUATES — Miss Diane Warden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Warden, 717 Washington Street, received a bachelor of science degree in home economics from Margaret Morrison School of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

At Carnegie was active in the Tarquins, was in the court of the Thistle Queen, and was a member of the yearbook staff. She was graduated from Allegany High School in 1952.

New Sheriff To Be Named For Garrett

Fisher Resigns To Be Assessor; Deputy
Nominated For Post

A successor has been chosen for Paul W. Fisher as sheriff of Garrett County, the Evening Times learned today.

He is James Frantz, who has been deputy sheriff for the past two years.

Chesnut M. Browning Sr., chairman of the Garrett County Republican State Central Committee, said Frantz was the unanimous choice of the committee and State Sen. Clifford Friend.

Resigned In April
The office of Governor McKeldin informed the Senator on Monday that Frantz' commission would arrive at the Garrett County Court House—the latter part of this week, Browning said.

Sheriff Fisher sent his resignation to the governor the latter part of April after he learned of his appointment as assessor by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners.

The appointment was to become effective June 1. Fisher, however, is serving as sheriff until Frantz' commission arrives.

Prior to becoming a deputy, Frantz operated a store in Friendsville, and earlier worked for the County Roads Department. He is a native of Friendsville.

Sheriff Fisher served as deputy under Sheriff Juniper Teats from 1946 to 1950 and was elected Teats' successor in 1950. He was re-elected sheriff in 1954 to serve a term expiring December 16, 1958. His successor will fill the unexpired term.

Sheriff Fisher is a native of The Cove section of Garrett county and went to Friendsville at the age of 16 to continue his schooling. Before becoming deputy sheriff in 1946 he worked on farms and as a truck driver and also operated a saw mill in the Friendsville section.

Glenn Liller Dies
In Local Hospital;
Resided In Romney

Services for Glenn Liller, Romney, who was killed yesterday in a fall from a 35-foot high tension pole while working at the Romney Junction, will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. (EST) at the White Pine Church at Purgitsville.

Liller died in Memorial Hospital here where he was admitted following the accident. He sustained multiple fractures and internal injuries that paralyzed him from the waist down.

He was a son of Paul and Anna (Georgel) Liller of Purgitsville. Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice (Mellon) Liller, Romney; four brothers, Norman Liller, Moorefield, and Kenneth, Edgall and Marlan Liller, all at home.

The body is at the Shaffer Funeral Home in Romney, but will be taken to the home of the victim's father tomorrow afternoon.

G. E. Nell, district manager of the Potomac Light and Power Company of West Virginia at Romney, said Liller was part of a transmission construction crew of five which was beginning to put high tension construction lines on the 65-foot wooden structure at the Junction.

The work is the beginning of the transmission line being erected by the power company from the Junction to Millville.

Witnesses to the accident said Liller was working about halfway up the two-pole structure and apparently, either while awaiting some equipment or in attempting to shift his position on the pole, slipped and plunged 35 feet to the ground.

Mr. Nell stated that Liller's safety belt was not broken and it appeared he may have unfastened it in attempting to shift his position on the pole. What caused him to slip and fall, construction crew members were unable to say.

Vacation Bible
School Planned

The annual vacation Bible School at First Church of the Nazarene will be held June 17-28, with classes scheduled Monday through Friday beginning at 9 a. m. daily.

Rev. H. E. Heckert, pastor, said the general theme of the school will be "Following Jesus."

That Mrs. Edward Hansroth will be superintendent.

Mrs. Richard House will be in charge of the nursery group; Mrs. Homer Deneen, kindergarten; Mrs. Donald Gray, primary; Mrs. Elmer Parsons, junior, and Mrs. C. Edward Twigg, intermediate.

The concluding activity will be a demonstration program at 7:30 p. m. on the final day of the school, Rev. Mr. Heckert said.

Difficulties Fore-
Hearing Postponement

An unusual situation arose in Trial Magistrate Court this morning.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason was forced to postpone a case one week after preliminary testimony was taken in a motor vehicle case.

The defendant was a mute, no interpreter was present, and an effort to have the officer, who purchased beer at a West Virginia tavern.

Magistrate Mason continued the motor vehicle case and turned the three girls, along with Robert C. Morgan, 25, Mt. Savage, and Harry Little, city, over to the State's Attorney's office for investigation of the liquor violations.

Morgan and Little were in the second car involved in the Baltimore Street incident.

Youth Fined On License Charge

A local youth was fined $10 and costs this morning in Trial Magistrate Court for operating a car on a 60-day card without a licensed operator present.

The youth, Robert Francis Newcomer, 19, Fort Ashby, was driving the car which crashed last Monday in Constitution Park, claiming the life of Robert G. Harvey, 17, of 8 Marion Street.

Officer E. M. Powell, who investigated, placed the charges against Newcomer, and also charged his father, John Newcomer, with permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his car.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason fined the youth, and dismissed the charges against his father.

City Damage Heavy In Rain Of Yesterday

Subways Flooded,
Gardens Washed Out
In All Districts

Last night's heavy rainfall gave the sewer system a "tid popping" experience, caused damage to some property and scattered dirt and debris over most of the city's streets.

In approximately a half hour, the skies poured out 1.19 inches of rain, the largest downfall of the year.

The unusual amount taxed capacity of the sewer system which overflowed throughout the city. Dirt and debris washed from higher spots, rock gardens were ruined, cellars flooded and the subways at Wincow, Virginia Avenue and Greene Street over-run with water. Lids on catch basins popped as water pressure built up.

In almost all sections, there were reports of some water damage although the drainoff was completed within a short time after the rain ceased.

The Street Department of the city went to work as soon as reports started coming in last night. Where sewers became blocked, men cleared them during the night. Andrew Heller, street superintendent, said he has four crews of 20 men cleaning up dirt and debris today.

Unusual Situation
The situation was described by the Street Department as "unusual" and could have happened in any city deluged by such a sudden heavy rain.

June is supposed to be the wettest month of the year and although only in the 12th day it is within 1.8 inches of normal. Yesterday's rain brought the total for the month to 2.08 inches compared to the normal 3.88 inches.

For the first five months of the year, according to Robert R. Golden, official observer at Constitution Park, total rainfall is slightly above average. Through May 14.9 inches have fallen compared to the normal of 14.10 inches.

The wettest month so far has been April when 4.16 inches were recorded compared to a normal of 2.83 inches.

Clearing Tonight
Oddly enough, the heavy rain of yesterday had only slight effect on the Potomac River. Golden said it apparently missed the river basin and at one time the reading at Wiley Ford showed a slight drop. At noon yesterday, the river was at 3.47 feet while today it was 3.49.

The weatherman sees partial clearing by this evening with a low tonight of 60-65. Tomorrow is expected to be cloudy, cooler but becoming warmer Friday and with more showers.

Liquor Sale
Probe Starts

City Police last night arrested a 19-year-old local girl at the intersection of Baltimore and Liberty streets, charging her with three motor vehicle violations.

Miss Betty Lou Pryor, of Apartment 5-E, Jane Frazier Village, was nabbed by Officer Paul Penrod after the occupants of two cars made an unusual amount of noise, according to police.

Police charged the girl with reckless driving, operating a motor vehicle without a license and unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

At a hearing this morning before Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason, Miss Pryor pleaded guilty to driving without a license, but not guilty to the other two charges.

During testimony the Pryor girl, along with two other girls, Shirley Zier, 20, of 32 West First Street, and Doris Jane Ralston, 19, rear of 427 Virginia Avenue, all told Magistrate Mason that they had purchased a number of mixed drinks at two local establishments.

The trio also testified that during the evening they had also purchased beer at a West Virginia tavern.

Magistrate Mason continued the motor vehicle case and turned the three girls, along with Robert C. Morgan, 25, Mt. Savage, and Harry Little, city, over to the State's Attorney's office for investigation of the liquor violations.

Morgan and Little were in the second car involved in the Baltimore Street incident.

Chamber Asks Approval Of Parkway Plan

Approval of a bill authorizing the construction of a scenic C&O Canal parkway in Western Maryland has been urged by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The action was taken by Charles S. Catherman Jr., president, in a message to Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, chairman of the sub-committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, which met today in Washington on the legislation proposed by U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall.

Plans for an official protest to the bill were announced yesterday by the Maryland Board of Natural Resources, which reaffirmed its previous stand against the construction of a federal highway along the canal route from Cumberland to Washington.

Catherman stated the proposed roadway from Paw Paw to Woodmont, together with the proposed widening and repaving by the Maryland State Roads Commission of Route 51 from Cumberland to Paw Paw, would provide Western Maryland with a sorely needed additional link to U. S. 40 at Hancock and to the East.

The combined road program, he said, will assure the future growth and expansion of a highly important industrial section and will, at the same time, provide tourists better access to the scenic attractions of the canal preserve.

These, he added, are important steps in opening the resources and preserving the historic landmarks of Western Maryland and the Potomac Valley.

College Heads To Meet Friday At Blackwater

DAVIS, W. Va. (U) — About 50 educators will gather at Blackwater Falls State Park Friday and Saturday for the annual meeting of the West Virginia Assn. of College and University Presidents.

Dr. Perry E. Gresham, president of Belhamp, and Dr. E. E. Church, Potomac State president, are co-chairmen of the association. Dr. Oliver S. Ikenberry, president of Shepherd College, is secretary.

At the opening session Friday afternoon, the presidents will discuss Visiting Day programs in which colleges send teams of students to visit high school senior classes.

Events Briefly Noted

The Navy Mothers Club 5:30 will install officers Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the American Legion Home here. All officers will wear white. A past commanders party will conclude the evening. Mrs. Margaret Dunlap is chairman. Refreshments will be served.

The Loyal Crusaders Bible Class of Park Place Methodist Church will hold an outdoor festival at the church Friday.

The Goodwill Class of the Potomac Park LUB Church will hold its annual family picnic Friday at the Celanese pool at 6 p. m. Each family is to bring a basket of food.

A rummage sale will be held in the basement of Centre Street Methodist Church tomorrow from 7 to 9 p. m. The proceeds will go toward the annual trip to Washington for Boy Scout Troop 4.

PE Plans Sale Of Bus Line

BAITMORE (U) — The Potomac Edison Co. today applied for permission to sell its Hagerstown bus system to Joseph C. Succa, who operates a bus service in Lemoyne, Pa.

The Public Service Commission said the sale price was estimated at $50,000.

Potomac Edison has a fleet of 31 busses operating in Hagerstown and adjoining suburban areas in Washington County. It is the city's only public transportation system. The commission said no date had been set for a hearing on the application.

Potomac Edison, an electric utility, was originally predominantly a transportation company. It has operated the Hagerstown bus system for many years.

The company said the Hagerstown system is its last transportation unit with the exception of a small railway operation in Frederick.

Ma And Pa Line Wants To Quit

BAITMORE (U) — The old Ma and Pa—formerly known as the Maryland and Pennsylvania Railroad—wants to abandon 42.4 miles of its historic line between Baltimore and Whiteford, Md.

In its petition filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday the railroad said it has been losing money on the line the past five years. President J. B. Nance said the Maryland and Pennsylvania lost $77,375 last year and $17,300 the year before. In the first four months of 1957 the deficit has run to $31,650, he added.

land. The area, he said, should be developed by the State for recreation and hunting. Hunting would be prohibited in a national park area.

Kaylor has contended there is no need for a "winding" 185-mile route from Cumberland to Washington because the State Roads Commission has obtained federal aid for modernizing U. S. Route 40 between the two cities.

Beall said the bill has "the wholehearted endorsement of the National Capital Planning Commission" and "I am advised, of the National Park Service as well as the Department of Interior."

Purchase Important
The senator said he considers an important part of the bill a provision to authorize the purchase and acceptance of donations of lands.

"Although the federal government owns the canal proper and adjacent lands, the development of the area as a national historical park will undoubtedly entail some necessary land exchanges in order that full advantage of the entire area may be realized," he said.

The project received the general approval of the Maryland State Legislature in 1953, he added.

Concerning the C & O Canal:

area, Beall said, "All who have visited the entire canal, or even part of it, are impressed with the whole area as a great source of relaxing activity and pleasant natural environment."

Important In History
"In addition to this site as a potential recreation area, the historical importance of the canal is paramount," Beall said. "It figured largely in the opening of the West—until, as a commercial enterprise, it was supplanted by the establishment of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad."

The parkway which would be authorized in the bill would extend for about 20 miles through the high lands overlooking the canal area. Its location was chosen after studies made by the National Park Service.

The federal government now owns 4,500 acres of land along the C & O Canal. The Beall bill would authorize the purchase of an additional 10,200 acres.

Mrs. Frances Alongi Named Head Of Social Welfare Club Awards Given To Cub Pack At Frostburg

Board Plans Two Projects At Hospital

FROSTBURG—Contracts were signed at a meeting of the board of directors of Miners Hospital this week for several major projects on the two floors of the old building.

One contract calls for the re-painting of the entire interior and the exterior trim of the old building. The second contract authorizes the laying of asphalt and plastic tile flooring over plywood underlayment in all of the hallways, rooms and wards in the old section of the hospital. This will eliminate the unsightly and hard to clean floors in the entire building.

Both of the projects are scheduled to be started within the next two weeks.

Contractors have also been requested to submit bids on the grading, surfacing and blacktopping of a large parking area adjacent to the hospital which, when completed, will accommodate 35 cars. This will eliminate the necessity of visitors parking their cars in the mud, which has created a major housekeeping problem at the hospital in wet weather.

Barton

BARTON—Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw have purchased the John Howell property on Latrobe Street.

Frank Snyder returned home after being a patient at Memorial Hospital for several weeks.

Victor Bender returned to Washington after spending the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Brennan.

George Ayers Sr. is a patient at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Miss Phyllis Woody, an employee at the registrar's office at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., returned to her home after visiting Miss Carolyn Harvey and Mrs. Harvey here. Miss Harvey returned to Huntington also.

Miss Carrie Bean returned to her home after spending a week with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Raybuck and children at Arlington, Va., and a week with Mr. and Mrs. James Taccino and children at Rockville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Neat and children of Monessen, Pa., and Miss Carolyn Neat and Miss Phyllis Neat of Washington attended the funeral of Samuel Neat.

Mrs. Doris Calkin, Mexico City, has returned home after spending two months visiting Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Michael, Cresaptown, and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Michael and Edwin Michael.

William R. Harvey, Huntington, W. Va., is spending a week here with his wife.

Rev. and Mrs. Elwood Carey and son have returned home after visiting her parents in Butler, Pa.

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. Frances Alongi was elected president of the Social Welfare Club at its annual dinner meeting recently in Ali Ghan Shrine Club, Cumberland. She succeeds Mrs. Ernest Hill.

Other officers named are Mrs. Bernice Newton, first vice president; Mrs. Katherine Richards, second vice president; Mrs. Violet Daddysman, secretary and Mrs. Annabelle Wilkes, treasurer. The officers were presented with gifts in behalf of the club by Mrs. Genevieve McMillen, chairman of the social committee, and it was decided to hold a fall fashion show in October.

Mrs. Mary Lou Barcase and Mrs. Betty Schiederham were accepted as new members. Thirty attended the meeting.

In the future the group will hold its annual dinner meeting in the fall instead of the spring. The fall program will open with a dinner meeting October 3.

Charitable donations amounting to $740.28 were made during the year, according to Mrs. Dorothy Knight, charity fund treasurer. A breakdown shows: Food for needy families, $167.78; United Organizations, $148.75; Westernport Health Center, $180; Friends of the Handicapped Children, $118.75; Allegany County Tuberculosis Association, $25; physician's procurement board, $15; Hungarian relief, $5; Boy Scouts of America, $10; Allegany-Garrett County Heart Fund, $15; Allegany County League for Crippled Children, $25; West Virginia Cancer Society, $15 and Tri-Towns Memorial Day Fund, $5.

Court Reverses Munday Decision

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The State Supreme Court yesterday set aside Ralph Munday's conviction in Mineral County for receiving stolen goods and directed the trial court to dismiss the indictment against him.

In a unanimous opinion, President Judge James B. Riley wrote that the indictment was defective because it did not comply with this requirement:

"An indictment for the statutory offense of receiving stolen goods must allege the name of the person from whom the accused received such goods, or that such person is to the grand jury unknown."

Mineral Circuit Court has held the indictment to be valid under a section of statute dealing with receipt of goods stolen in another state.

But Judge Riley wrote that the indictment also was defective under that section because it failed to allege that the property "was stolen in another state, or having been stolen in another state, it was brought into this state."

Munday and his brother James were jointly indicted on a charge of having received $200 worth of steam valves and brass, although knowing that the goods had been stolen from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Their cases were separated for trial. Ralph Munday was convicted and sentenced to one to two years in the State Penitentiary. Prosecution of James Munday was dropped.

FROSTBURG—A number of awards were presented at a recent meeting of Cub Pack 30 by the College Laboratory School PTA in the visual education room at the College.

During the Bobcat ceremony, Charles Boag Jr. was formally inducted into the pack and was presented with a pin, neckerchief and slide. Daniel Munson was also given a neckerchief and slide as a token of his acceptance into the Pack.

Craig Schutz, Thomas Shockey and Keith Connor were awarded Wolf badges, pins and gold arrow points in recognition of their degree.

Gary Lashley, Glen Michaels and Paul Haberlein were presented Bear badges and pins. Lashley also received gold and silver arrow points and Michaels received a gold arrow point and a Denner bar for his work in the den.

Silver arrow points were presented to Robert Blair and Larry Sigler. Thomas Baucum received a gold and two silver arrow points.

Following the awards ceremony, a skit was presented by the dens on the theme of the month: "Cub Fireman," and the award for the best uniformed group was presented to Den 1 after uniform inspection.

It was announced by Earl Richardson, cubmaster, that this would be the last formal meeting of the summer. Thomas Baucum Sr., committee chairman, listed the following schedule of events for the pack:

Saturday family picnic at Bradock Park, beginning at 2 p. m.; visit to Fort Cumberland and Camp Potomac during July; August 23, swimming party at Frostburg Community pool and family picnic.

The meeting concluded with the flag closing ceremony and a "grand howl," after which refreshments were served by the Den Mothers.

Area Graduates Are Entertained

MT. SAVAGE—Miss Jane Conway, member of the graduating class of St. Patrick's Parochial School, entertained classmates at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Conway, East Main Street. Refreshments were served and games furnished entertainment.

Morgan County Voters OK Special Area School Levy

BERKELEY SPRINGS—Unofficial returns yesterday showed that 61.45 per cent of Morgan County voters who went to the polls to ballot on a special district school levy approved the measure. The results:

For 1,226, against 769.

Verl W. Snyder, superintendent of Morgan County schools, said the vote authorizes additional school levies, beginning July 1 of this year, July 1, 1958 and July 1, 1959. The purposes for which additional funds are needed are:

(a) To increase the salaries of departments will be in operation, teachers, bus drivers, custodians, and other employees of the board, low the regular weekly dinner (the approximate yearly amount being $15,000); (b) To purchase First Methodist Church on North Davis Street. Cars will be provided for the full club membership, maintain existing buildings, facilities and equipment now owned at 7:15.

The club program for the summer months has been prepared by the program chairman, Rev. Donald D. Anderson, as follows:

June 19, agriculture and conservation; June 26, boys and girls activity program; July 3, picnic; July 10, public and business affairs; July 17, Kiwanis education and fellowship; July 24, underprivileged children; July 31, vocational guidance; August 7, public relations.

The club is also sponsoring a continued weekly film showing at the Limestone School playgrounds during the summer.

Kiwanians To Visit Plant

KEYSER—Keyser Kiwanians will be conducted through the Pryne & Company plant on the north side of Keyser this evening by Edwin Jordan, a member of the office family and a Kiwanian. The metal cutting and welding departments will be in operation. The visit to the plant will follow the regular weekly dinner meeting in the dining room of the First Methodist Church on North Davis Street. Cars will be provided for the full club membership, maintain existing buildings, facilities and equipment now owned at 7:15.

The club program for the summer months has been prepared by the program chairman, Rev. Donald D. Anderson, as follows:

Night Auto Racing Considered For Fort Ashby

John Barton Taking Over As Operator Of Speedway

Speaking as a sports writer, it was most gratifying news when the announcement came this week from the office of the Allegany County Board of Education that three former athletes had been named to principalships.

J. Hubert Radcliffe becomes the new administrator at Mt. Savage High, Joe Pelleri succeeds "Hubie" at Oldtown and Raymond (Dinks) Skidmore takes over as "head man" at new Northeast Elementary.

Radcliffe, former baseball coach at Allegany High, starred in the diamond sport for years as a catcher. A student of the game, "Hubie" was a level-headed type of player who had the respect, not only of his teammates, but of opposing players and managers. This also held true when he switched to coaching and it probably applies to his position as a principal.

Skidmore was a star in three sports at Allegany, being particularly outstanding in football, basketball and baseball. No grimmer in Allegany's history had more spunk than he. As a hard-running back, he asked no quarter and gave none, but he and Belford had the reputation as a player of being a "nice guy." And he still is held with the same regard.

Pelleri never quite attained the heights of either Radcliffe or Skidmore while playing football at Fort Hill. But Joe knows the game and is forever trying to enhance his knowledge of the sport. He proved a valuable asset to coach Bill Hahn while serving as his assistant and the Fort Hill mentor is going to miss his services.

The accusing finger of overemphasis has been pointed in the direction of sports of all kinds in recent years—and undoubtedly with some justification.

In some cases there have been flagrant violations of a common-sense attitude towards athletics, and national governing bodies for both high schools and colleges have been working for a program of modified emphasis.

There can be no denying that athletics, when properly controlled, are a great recreational asset, both from the standpoint of the spectator and participant.

Sports are a great common denominator in our American way of life. They provide an opportunity for athletes to get a college education that they might otherwise be deprived of, or to become reasonably wealthy in professional sports. It matters not who you are, only if you have the ability.

In many cases sports are used as a stepping stone to success in other undertakings. Those who benefit from the lesson taught by sports of being able to accept the bitter with the sweet are in a good position to succeed in other phases of life.

Undoubtedly Radcliffe, Skidmore and Pelleri learned that lesson well.

Sports Keg Residue

William H. "Bill" Hottel, who served as sports publicist at the University of Maryland for 23 years, died Sunday on the eve of his 78th birthday. Hottel served as sports writer and editor of The Washington Star for 28 years. In addition to his duties on The Star, Bill for many years was a journalism instructor at Maryland and faculty advisor for student publications. . . . Antonio Rocca, the barefooted Argentine, defeated Ricki Starr, his foremost challenger for national wrestling honors, Monday night at Washington's Griffith Stadium before 10,406 paying customers. . . . The gate receipts of $25,923 broke a 27-year-old record for the stadium, the old mark being set in 1935 in a match between the Jim Londos and Rudy Dusek. . . . American Assn. of Official Race-Ring, who defeated Prof. Royling last Wednesday night at Cumberland's State Armory, was involved in a tug-of-war with the ballet dancing Starr, also victorious several weeks ago, examined last year 52 showed for 50 minutes before being declared the winner. . . . A return outdoor match is being considered for later this summer. . . . Dr. Roger Bannister, the first to run the sub-four-minute mile, who writes a sports column for the Times of London, deplores the fact that "amateurism is in danger of becoming the great lost cause of sport." . . . He writes that "the governing bodies of each sport have been busy in the no-man's land between those who play for profit and those who play for fun. . . . They have allowed a jungle of regulations to strangle their good intentions." . . . Bannister observes that many people have "become distressed when our teams men's Golf Association at the abroad meet defeat" and would "abolish the distinction between amateur and professional putting contest with 15 putts. . . . I think they overestimate the importance of sporting prestige abroad," says the man who probably has done more than anyone else for post-war British sports.

There is a strong likelihood that night auto racing will be introduced into this area in the near future.

The possibility of such a move was announced today by John W. Barton who is taking over the operation of the Potomac Valley Speedway at Fort Ashby.

Barton, associated with his father, Harry J., in the Barton Dairy business, said the dirt track will continue to operate every Sunday, with six heat events and a feature race carded for this coming Sunday, beginning at 2 p.m.

For the next two Sundays, drivers will share half of the total gate receipts but after that time when he switched to coaching and it probably applies to his position as a principal.

Approximately 25 cars owned by area drivers have been taking sports at Allegany, being particularly outstanding in football, basketball and baseball. No grimmer in Allegany's history had more spunk than he. As a hard-running back, he asked no quarter and gave none, but he and Belford had the reputation as a player of being a "nice guy." And he still is held with the same regard.

The new operator also announced work will start Friday on the alleviation of the dust problem that has confronted the track this year. The racing strip, according to Barton, will be treated with calcium and oil.

Lights Considered

If interest increases in the Sunday program, Barton said efforts will be made to install lights and have night racing. No other improvements are planned at present, the track as it stands now being able to accommodate 1,500 fans.

On July 4, an auto daredevil show will be staged by Gene Schell, but the Sunday program, throughout the rest of the season, will be strictly for stock cars.

Barton takes over operation of the speedway from R. E. Phares of Fort Ashby who opened it two years ago. With John, a registered driver in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, Inc., taking over the Fort Ashby track, the Bartons move into the race business on two fronts. His father is general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association which conducts an annual 12-day horse-racing meet here.

Bears Can Take Title Tonight By Win Over Nittany

OMAHA (AP)—Penn State will try tonight to put a stop to the battering California's Bears have been handing to the rest of the field in the NCAA College Baseball World Series.

But the odds are the Bear bats and the strong armed pitching of West Coast club has shown will be over with California owning its second championship.

If that happens California will join Texas as the only school to win a pair of NCAA series titles. The Bears won the first college World Series in 1947. Monday night California whipped Penn State 8-0, handing the Nittany Lions their first defeat in 22 games this season. That is why the Bears are favored to chew up the Lions in tonight's game.

California was in top shape both at the plate and on the mound last night in eliminating Iowa State 9-1.

Penn State nipped Notre Dame 5-4 to stay in the running.

Horse 'Doping' On Decrease

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Doping of race horses is steadily decreasing, Dr. John A. Herculeon set in 1935 in a match between the Jim Londos and Rudy Dusek. . . . American Assn. of Official Race-Ring, who defeated Prof. Royling last Wednesday night at Cumberland's State Armory, was involved in a tug-of-war with the ballet dancing Starr, also victorious several weeks ago, examined last year 52 showed for 50 minutes before being declared the winner. . . . ## Wide-Open Contest Seen For National Open Title

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
TOLEDO (AP)—The 57th U. S. Open Golf Championship begins tomorrow over a tightened, rain-softened Inverness that is substantially the same as one where two historic opens were decided in the past.

And one certain thing is that the professionals in the field of 162 will be playing for more money than they ever dreamed of when England's Ted Ray won the 1920 championship or when Billy Burke, using one of the first sets of modern steel-shafted clubs, beat George Von Elm in a 72-hole playoff for the 1931 title.

Prize Money Increased
The USGA, which annually draws criticism from the touring professionals for "tricking up" courses for the Open, eased the pain a bit by announcing a 20 per cent increase in all prize money, raising the total to $30,000. The winner on Saturday will receive $7,200—more than the entire purse in either of the previous Inverness Opens.

Ray received $500 when he slipped with a 293 score ahead of a storm which virtually blew an English rival, Harry Vardon, off the course on the last few holes. The longest playoff in Open championship history netted Burke only $1,600. Burke and Von Elm posted 292 holes, tied at 149 after a 36-hole playoff and Burke finally won out, 148-149 on the next 36 holes.

Inverness can't be lengthened beyond its 6,919 yards. It has a par of 70 and the pros have been talking scores of around 284 or 285 being good enough to win.

Wide-Open Contest
They also have been talking about a wide open contest among the older pros who have dominated the Open for several years and the younger ones just coming along. One group will pick Cary Middlecoff, the defending

Snead Eyes Open After 16 Failures

By JOHN BARRINGTON
INS Sports Editor

TOLEDO, O., (INS)—In baseball, they'd hench a guy with a batting average like Sam Snead, who is 0 for 16 in National open golf championship competition.

Yet Sam, 43 years old last month, will be one of the favorites in this year's Open at Toledo's Inverness Club—just as he has been for most of the previous 16 times that he has struggled to subdue one of the most horrendous jinxes in all golf.

Slammin' Sam has won just about every other U. S. tournament worth mentioning, including the PGA and the Masters three times apiece. But his National Open record reads like a night-mare.

In 1947, he tied Lew Worsham, but, on the 18th hole of their playoff, missed a 30-1/2-inch putt that would have prolonged the deadlock and called for another 18 holes. Again in 1949, he just missed being Cary Middlecoff in the stretch.

Despite his record of near-misses, Sam insists that he doesn't choke, but the Open has become something of an obsession, the lone remaining challenge in golf for a fellow grown mellow and financially secure. After a couple of relatively inactive years because of an injured hand, he is in such good form that he must be taken seriously when he says he thinks he can win.

Impresses In Practice
Two weekends ago, Snead roared from behind to win the Palm Beach Round Robin. He has been at Inverness, where he always has played well, since Saturday and has been impressive in practice. Discussing the " ordeal" after he had won the Round Robin, Sam said:

"I think I'm at the right end of a cycle. The breaks weren't good for me for a long while. They've been going for me recently, and you need luck to win the Open."

If Snead should capture this year's tournament, he'd be the oldest champion ever. At present the record is held by Ted Ray, an Englishman who was the last foreigner to win the U. S. title. He was 43 years, 4-1/2 months old when he won this same Inverness Gray's Tavern in their clash at Fort Hill Field.

The Tremenhe have taken one of three starts while Gray's has a 1-3 record. Marine Reserves are in fifth with a 2-2 reading.

Yesterday's pair of games, Post Playgrounds vs. Peskin's there doesn't seem to be anyone Slue Store and National Guard in sight to challenge the long-against Gray's, were rained out.

Birds Continue To Feast On First-Division Teams

DETROIT (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles continued their assault on first division clubs last night, beating the Detroit Tigers 4-1 behind Connie Johnson's eight-hit pitching.

The Orioles scored three of their runs in the seventh when Bob Nieman and GUM Triandos hit successive doubles and Jim Pfyfer clouted a two-run homer, his first of the season.

Johnson gave up Charley Maxwell's 11th home run of the year in the Tigers' first, but then buckled down and was tough in the clutches.

Bob Boyd kept up his hot hitting in the Tigers' spire, collecting three singles in four times at bat and raising his average to .340.

Billy Hoeltz bewildered Orioles batters until the seventh inning, when he gave way to Lou Sluiter. In winning, Johnson's record at 3-5, while Hoeltz's loss was his third against the Tigers.

Rookie Joe Durham, called up from San Antonio to plug an outfield hole left by the injured Tito Francona, singled once in four at bats and made two fine over-the-shoulder grabs in centerfield.

Within the past two weeks the Orioles, who seem to play best in the other guys' ball park, have taken the series play away from New York, Kansas City and Chicago. They take on Detroit in the second of three games today, then move into Cleveland before returning for a June 16th home opener against the White Sox.

Pair City Games Set This Evening

Old Germans and Knights of Columbus will both be out to grab sole possession of second place in the City Softball League this evening.

The Old Germans meet Old Exports at Stitzer Field while the Caseys tangle with Blue Ribbon Bakery on the Penn Avenue diamond.

The Germans and Caseys are in a deadlock for second behind pacing Hermans with 2-2 records. The Caseys moved into the tie Monday evening with a 7-2 triumph over Blue Ribbon.

Blue Ribbon has yet to post a victory in four attempts while Old Exports (2-3) were dropped from second place last Friday in losing a 1-0 battle to Hermans.

Both of today's games begin at 6:15.

Fights Last Night

By The Associated Press
HOUSTON, Tex. — Roy Harris, 160, outpointed Willie Pastrano, 167, New Orleans, 10.

ROSTON — Billy Ryan, 162, Lowell, Mass., stopped Milton Ebb, 167½, Newark, N. J., 4.

NEWARK, N. J. — Joe Lively, 132, Middlebury, 5, 2, stopped Yvon Tazenne, 135, Montreal, 5.

LEICESTER, England — Randy Turpin, 172½, London, outpointed Arthur Howard, 173½, London, 15. Turpin retained British light-heavyweight title.

A couple of other relative oldsters who can't be counted out this year are Ben Hogan, who will be 45 on Aug. 13, and Jimmy Demaret, 46.

On the other end of the scale, Post Playgrounds vs. Peskin's there doesn't seem to be anyone Slue Store and National Guard in sight to challenge the long-against Gray's, were rained out.

Harris Upsets Pastrano In Bloody Bout

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Roy Harris, the backwoods belter, moved through his own blood to an upset decision over high ranking Willie Pastrano last night and planted himself right on the doorsteps of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Accomplishing in two years what many fighters have tried for a lifetime and failed, the school teacher from Little Cut-and-Shoot, Tex., whipped Pastrano, fast-moving No. 3 rated man from New Orleans, before a Texas crowd of 10,000 that paid $49,062.50. It was Harris' 21st victory in 21 fights as a professional.

About the only person who dissented in the screaming crowd was Angelo Dundee, manager of Pastrano, who yelled, "We won the fight! They gave it to him. Willie carried the fight!" And Dundee said Harris would fight nobody else but his boy. "We got a contract to fight him again in 60 days in Miami Beach," snapped Dundee. "We want to chop him up and send him back home. This guy fights nobody before us."

The referee and the judges saw it all Harris and so did the crowd.

After a defeat in his last start against Tony DeMarco, the No. 1 challenger for welterweight champion Carmen Basilio's title, Byars—the No. 7 welterweight from Roxbury, Mass.—will be out to begin a new string.

Byars has won 15 of his 20 professional fights, including decisions over Kid Gavilan and Sugar Hart. Akins has won 41 of his 57 fights—22 by knockouts.

Akins 8 To 5 Choice Tonight

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Both fighters are talking in terms of victory, but the odds makers have Virgil Akins an 8-5 favorite to turn back Walter Byars in a 10-round nationally televised (ABC) battle of ranking welterweights at the Norfolk Arena tonight.

Akins, the St. Louis hatter ranked No. 5 by the National Boxing Assn., will be after his sixth straight triumph in the sports feature of the International Naval Review at 9 p. m. (EST).

Musial Sets Another Mark In Tilt Today

By International News Service

Stan Musial, who will set a new National League consecutive game playing record tonight, soon may be able to concentrate on his top personal goal—winning the 1957 batting championship.

Stan the Man tied Gus Suhr's "Iron man" record of 822 straight games last night against Philadelphia and will have the league title all to himself tonight when he takes the field against the Phils.

Musial did nothing remarkable last night, managing only a scratch hit in five times at bat. But he has rewritten the record books since he joined the St. Louis Cardinals near the end of the 1941 season.

The 36-year-old slugger from Donora, Pa., has a lifetime batting average of .340 and has led the National League in hitting six times.

He wants very much to win one more title.

When the six-foot, 175-pound easy-going athlete signed his contract last winter, he said he thought he could win a seventh crown by taking an occasional game off and resting. Now that the consecutive game mark is within reach, he probably will do just that.

Aside from winning another batting championship, Musial also would like to become the eighth player in major league history to achieve 3,000 hits. He is just 149 hits away from that goal.

But he doesn't have any hope of equalling the late Lou Gehrig's tremendous record of 2,130 games in a row—tops in big league history.

Musial Calls Tying Suhr's Title 'Luck'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The ever modest Stan Musial called it "luck" last night when he tied the National League mark for consecutive games played, but a look at the record slams him as second only to the late Lou Gehrig as the most durable player in the history of the game.

Gehrig played in 2,130 consecutive games for the New York Yankees. Musial has been in the lineup of the St. Louis Cardinals in 2,122 of the club's 2,229 games since he joined the team some 14 years ago.

"You have to be lucky to do something like this," said Musial last night after he played in his 822nd consecutive game to tie the record set by former Pittsburgh first baseman Gus Suhr from Sept. 11, 1931, to June 4, 1937.

"I've been fortunate not to have any serious injuries that would sideline me. I go out there and play every game and the fact they have all come in succession as they have is secondary to me."

A handicap event, Mrs. Harris led a field of 35 with a net score of 103-32—73. Runnerup was Mrs. Charles Heinrich with 74 and Mrs. Royce Hodges was third with 75. The tourney is named for the late Julia DeMarcy, wife of a former manager at the local club.

Perry, Lewis Pace Pen-Mar League In Hitting, Pitching

Junie Perry of Grantsville and Tommy Lewis of Mt. Savage are the batting and pitching leaders in the Pen-Mar Baseball League according to statistics released by Don Hansel, league secretary.

Perry, last year's bat champ and home run leader, has rapped 23 hits in 40 trips for a .575 average. The slugging pitcher-outfielder-infielder of Grantsville is again showing the way in homers with six circuit belts.

Perry wound up with a .472 mark last summer and clouted a dozen four-baggers.

Wallman Runnerup

Runnerup to Perry is John Wallman of Hyndman with a .536 average while Clay Leydig, also of the pacesetters, is third with an even .500 record.

Bob Cessna, Wellersburg, has belted two homers to fall in behind Perry. Bobby Goss, Wellersburg; Barney Spearman, Zihlman; Homer Rose, Centerville, and Perry have four doubles while Ron Carter, Wellersburg, and Ken Johnson, Mt. Savage, both have hit three triples.

Carter has swiped six bases with Perry pilfering five.

Lewis, Leydig Unbeaten

Lewis sports a 5-0 pitching record for the Old Germans with Hyndman's Jim Leydig being undefeated in four decisions. Glenn Deremer, Centerville, has won four but lost three.

Deremer has fanned the most batters with 46 victims and "Lefty" Bill Haberlein of Flintstone has whiffed 42. Batting records:

Unbeaten Barton Host To Finzel

The second round in the Twilight Baseball League starts this evening with Finzel getting its second crack at the undefeated record of paces Barton when they meet today at Barton.

The top leaders bagged all five starts in the first round, including an 18-2 rout of Finzel in the season opener. Finzel has a 1-4 record for the campaign.

Wright's Crossing, knotted with Midland for the runnerup slot on its 3-2 log, will play at Zihlman (1-4) while Midland is host to Loneconing (2-3) in the other contests. All games start at 5:30.

Fugazy Sees Lence Having Rugged Time

By ROB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—Take it from Humbert Fugazy, who took it from Tex Rickard, it's not going to be easy for Emil Lence to top the top role in boxing promotion from Jim Norris—Federal court ruling or not.

Fugazy operated as a promoter of championship fights in the face of the consuming competition of the greatest promoter of them all. Yet he promoted nearly two dozen fights in the New York area, including one of the greatest—Harry Greb's 15-round decision over Mickey Walker at the Polo Grounds. That one drew $400,000, of which $109,000 went to the Italian Hospital. Greb was middleweight champion, Walker welterweight king. On the supporting card was Harry Wills against Charley Weinert (Wills knocked him out in three beats); Dave Shade against Jimmy Slattery (Shade in four) and Joe Lynch fought Little Jack Sharkey a six-round draw. Fugazy's Berlenbach-Delaney fight at Ebbets Field, 1926, drew 45,000, grossed $510,000.

Must Have Attraction

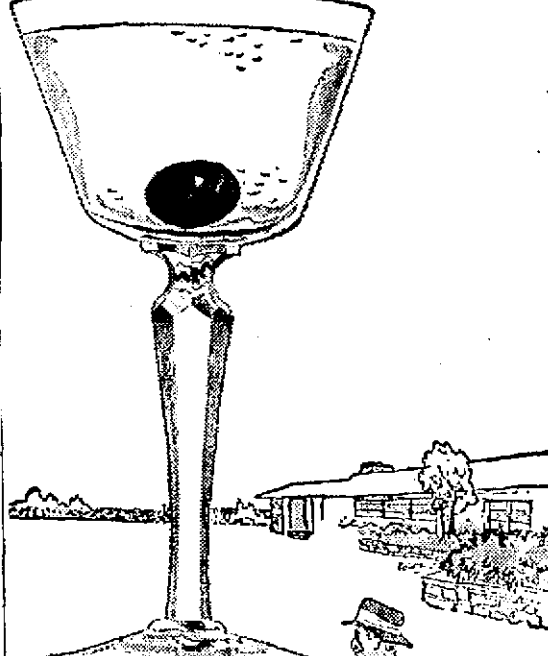

"You've got to have the attraction to get any place in promoting," Fugazy told us the other day at Shor's place. He is a roundish, bald little man with a French Legion of Honor rosette in his button hole and a great fund of stories of New York in the Roaring Twenties. Recently, he joined his nephews Louis and William Fugazy in the family's travel agency, the oldest and largest of its kind in America.

"Lence doesn't have too much in Floyd Patterson against Hurricane Jackson," he went on. "It's not an easy fight to sell. It's not the type of fight that will establish him or effectively break the monopoly. If Patterson wins, people will say he should have. If Jackson wins, it would seem to me that the heavyweight division will have been brought to an all-time low."

"It costs a fortune to put on a big fight now," Fugazy said, thinking of the days when he operated. "I gave Greb $35,000 and Mickey $25,000 for that great fight. They fought on the street later that night for nothing, as you'll remember. It will be interesting to see if anybody but Norris can afford to put on the big ones."

"For a time, 30 years ago, I thought that I was going to get the second Dempsey-Tunney fight. Gene liked the idea of one old Greenwich Village boy promoting a fight for a young Greenwich Village boy, himself. And he was angry over his purse in the first fight. But I didn't have a chance, really. The Garden stockholders moved in with their money, behind Rickard, and the only thing my offer achieved was to get Tunney out of the ring."

Oh Gee Gals Idle, Sunday Tilts Off

Sunday's schedule home opener for the Old German Hermannettes has been cancelled, manager Chad Riley announced this morning.

Riley stated that the Lebanon (Pa.) Cedarettes asked that the game be moved back to sometime in August as the club would be unable to appear here this weekend.

The Oh Gee Gals will make their first start before the home fans now Saturday evening, July 6, at Penn Avenue Field in a twin bill against Williamsport. They will be idle this weekend with the next pair of games listed for a week from Sunday against Burgettstown on the Penny diamond.

Pair Pony Tilts

A pair of games is set today in the Oakland Pony Baseball League with Rotary meeting Woodmen and Moose being host to country Club. The first contest will start at 5 o'clock.

Practice Schedule

Fort Cumberland Post American Legion junior team today, 6 p. m., Allegany Field.

Indians of Dapper Dan League tomorrow, 1 p. m., Allegany.

Detroit shortstop Harvey Kuenn broke into the majors with a .325 average for 19 games in 1952.

Corum Says Giants, Dodgers Signed, Sealed For Transfer

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK (INS)—Unless two well-known and important men, who are in as good a position to know as any two people who could be named, except Walter O'Malley and Horace Stoneham, are completely wrong, New York City has lost the Giants and Dodgers.

Both these men told the writer last night at different times and different places, unequivocally, and obviously without the slightest question in their minds, that the transfer of the two franchises to the Pacific Coast is settled and closed.

They could be wrong. If they are, the writer, in this instance, still is the rightest reporter whose story you ever read.

Impossible To Ignore

Because if I named their names, which I can't, every one who reads this, including O'Malley and Stoneham, would agree that the sources were impossible to ignore.

If John Foster Dulles and Sherman Adams told you something that President Eisenhower was going to do, would you believe it? And if you were a reporter, with no confidence involved, would you print it?

This information is close to being comparable in this situation. I didn't go to get this story, or any story. But the first of these gentlemen, in a group of perhaps a dozen people, misunderstood something I had said. He thought he heard me say that I didn't think they would go, instead of that I was afraid they would.

We'd been chatting together and he was walking away, but he turned sharply and came back asking: "Did I hear you right?"

I told him I'd said I was afraid the Giants were going, not that they weren't.

"You're Right"

He nodded his head vigorously and said, softly for my ears only, "You're right."

Later, in another place, the second gentleman said the same two words, louder and just as definitely, and put both the Giants and the Dodgers into the same boat. Or plane, if you prefer.

This time there were six of us sitting around a table. In time, the conversation came around to what must be the great conversation piece in New York today: "Are you going or staying?"

On this occasion, I hadn't opened my mouth. I was just sitting there, nursing a small beer.

A well-known banker said that he didn't believe the two teams would ever leave New York.

"The source," the man who had to know, in my book, turned to me and said: "You ought to know. It's your business, what do you say?"

"I don't know," I replied, "but I believe Mr. So & So is wrong."

"You're right," said the gentleman, who should know.

ney a little better deal when he signed with Rickard."

Rickard's Days Recalled
Fugazy's memories of Rickard are in sharp focus today, though the years pile up.

"He was a discouraged, unhappy guy near the end," he remembered of the faded man about whom Charles Samuels has written a fascinating book, "The Fabulous Ruben."

"He sent a sportswriter to me, near the end, to give me a message saying that I had caused him more headaches than anybody else, so why didn't I join with him and he'd leave the Garden and we'd promote together? Rickard said, 'They're just never satisfied over there with the amount of money I make them, and they won't forgive me when I lose.' I turned him down, the biggest mistake of my life."

We told Fugazy of a recent talk with Tunney in which Gene, asked to name the dirtiest fighter he had ever met, delicately answered, "I would say without qualification that of all the fighters I met, Harry Greb was the least interested in the rules."

"Interesting," Fugazy said with a nod. "Oddly, I asked Greb that same question once and he said, 'Tommy Loughran. I gave him a thumb and he came right back and gave me two thumbs. Everything I tried after that, he did double. Finally, I got him in close and said let's have a clean fight, and it was just as well he agreed — because I was getting twice what I dished out.'"

Tipped Off Tunney
"Greb was the one who tipped me off to bet on Tunney in the first Dempsey fight. He said he had boxed Jack in training camp and was run out because he made Jack look so bad. Of Tunney he said, 'The first time I boxed him I gave him a boxing lesson. The next time, he gave me one. The third time he could have knocked me out.' I got as high as 10-1 on Gene."

"He was a wonder, that Greb. The modern fan somehow thinks of him as a man who lived high night and day. Actually, he drank very little, but he could make you believe he was lapping it up. I remember the night he conned Johnny Wilson and his manager into giving him a crack at Wilson's title. We were in Jimmy Kelly's joint in the Village. They wanted no part of Greb if he was in shape. First of all he got on the scales for them and he weighed 170, ten pounds over what he'd have to make. Then he started ordering prohibition Scotch, one after another. Actually he was spilling most of it. So they signed — and Greb made the weight and won the title."

Fugazy tried to make a Dempsey-Wills fight, but the commission at the time felt it would stir up the same race riots that followed the John S. Johnson fight. "Dempsey would have flattened Wills the best day Wills ever saw," he told us.

Fugazy would like to try promoting once more, though he's otherwise mentally fit. Meanwhile, if you want to go to Peru, Ind., or Peru Peru, call him.

Professional golfers are just like doctors. Minute a man meets a doctor, he brings up that crick in his neck. And the other day, I went into a clothing store in New York and a couple of customers forgot about suit sizes and started asking me about their grips.

"Mine is terrible," one of them was saying. "What's the best way for me to hold a club?"

I gave him the only answer possible — "I'd have to see you play."

This was no brush off. Take 500 golfers — top tournament pros or plain telephone number shooters — and 499 will have different grips. The other 10 are coincidences.

We're all different. Each pair of hands has a different size and strength. To copy a Ben Hogan or a Sam Snead on your club champion would be foolish. You've got your own body and your own kind of golf game comes from it.

A good teaching pro can take one look at you and come up with a grip to fit. The Vardon-overlapping-grip is a style. You've got to find the right size in that line.

Just like the fellows in the clothing shop. My suits didn't fit them. Neither did my grip. Why, if they tried using mine they'd go half-crazy trying to get a swing together.

No golfer alive has a good game unless his grip is correct. The hands are the only part of your body touching your club. So if you're having trouble with your game start overhauling it by having somebody check that grip.

When Brooklyn won 105 games in 1933 it marked the first time (NEA) — Penn State's baseball team won 17 straight games this season, which marked Coach Joe Beden's 27th year.

Citation Just Wasn't Human

NEW YORK (NEA) — Had Citation performed before tele-vision cameras there is little doubt that this son of Bull Lea would have become an even bigger legend than he is.

An inkling of Citation's greatness was expressed by an anonymous groom who turned to Alfred G. Vanderbilt after the colt's victory in the Synony Stakes at Belmont Park and said: "Boss, that hoss just ain't human!"

This year will mark the final retrospective presentation of the Thoroughbred Racing Association's Triple Crown Trophy. It will go to Colonel Farm in recognition of the performance of Citation in 1948, when he won the Kentucky Derby, The Preakness, Belmont Stakes and everything else in sight.

Rocky Colavito, Cleveland outfielder, has tried to pattern his style of play after that of Joe DiMaggio. Rocky is a native of the Bronx.

Branch Rickey, father of baseball's farm system, played 119 games in the major leagues and batted .239. He was a catcher.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 5 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 5, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Wandering Squirrel Damages Residence

GLASGOW, Ky. (AP) - A wandering squirrel tried to convert E. P. Ebert's home into a king-size cage while he was away.

Returning from vacation, Ebert found the squirrel had entered the house and caused considerable damage trying to get out again. First, it died lying.

This body was found while Ebert totaled the damage - a broken lamp, chewed-up Venetian blinds, and 14 window pane frames, bitten off right down to the glass.

LAW OFFICE OF W. LARUE CORRY

CUMBERLAND, MD.

Pearl R. Mulligan, 29 Orchard Street, Cumberland, Maryland, Comptroller.

James H. Mulligan, 3 Blucher Street, Ridgeley, West Virginia, Representative.

No. 2105 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree dissolving Pearl R. Mulligan, the Comptroller, from James H. Mulligan, his representative, A VINCENT MATTHEWS.

The Bill recites the marriage of the parties in Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, on July 28, 1922, that the Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, for 12 years; that the Respondent is a non-resident of Maryland and now residing at 3 Blucher Street, Ridgeley, West Virginia; that one child, who is now an adult, residing in Johnston, Pennsylvania, was born to the parties of this marriage; that although the Respondent has always been a resident of the Complainant toward the Respondent and the child, the Respondent has refused to support the child and the Respondent has refused to support the child.

It is therefore on this 21st day of May, 1957, that the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland, ordered that the Complainant by causing a copy of this order to be published in some daily newspaper for four successive weeks before the 22nd day of June, 1957, and that the Respondent, James H. Mulligan, do appear in this Honorable Court, in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 8th day of July, 1957, to show cause why he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

School Set At St. Luke's

"The Living Church" will be the theme of the vacation church school of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church which starts tomorrow and runs through June 28.

To be covered in the vacation school will be the church history, church heroes, origin of the church, work of the church, church organization, ritual and symbolism, and church music.

The vacation school will be divided into five department levels: pre-kindergarten, kindergarten, primary, junior and intermediate.

Preparations began April 15 under direction of Mrs. Eugene Hilton and has included general orientation, departmental discus-

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Taste can be a delaying factor; taking sufficient time to review, gain necessary facts and analyze procedures can speed up progress appreciably. Don't take on more than reasonable, but do keep busy.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—Children's affairs, oldsters' needs, and your personal and domestic interests rate more attention now. Give your

New Council Organized By Local Groups

A new organization, the Community Council, was formed last night at a meeting in the Allegheny County Historical Society headquarters.

The organization will coordinate the activities of clubs in the Cumberland area.

Robert A. Mathews, president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, was elected first president of this coordinating body. Other officers are Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, vice president, and Miss Kay Avers, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of each of the 13 organizations which are charter members was discussed along with a draft of the charter for the new council. There was a report of the calendar committee. The first calendar will be published about August 1 for activities during the month of August and September.

Charter members of the council are the American Association of University Women, the Music and Arts Club, the Junior Woman's Civic Club, the Civitan Club, the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, the Jaycees, the Newcomers Club, the Woman's Civic Club, the Optimist Club of Cumberland, the LaVale Century Club, the Garden Club, the Historical Society, the Soroptimist Club, Algonquin Chapter of the National Secretaries Association and the Cumberland Lions Club.

Other clubs are invited to join the council, Mr. Mathews said. The next meeting will be Friday, July 12, at 8 p.m. at the Historical Society headquarters.

Car Reported Stolen

Maryland State Police last night were informed that a 1953 Oldsmobile, owned by O. L. Clark, Sparta, Ill., was stolen from Town Hill. The owner had stopped overnight at a motel there.

Accident Victims Reported 'Good'

Gilbert Dunnivan, 30, and his wife, Virginia Dunnivan, 29, of Selby, Va., are reported in "good" condition at Meyersdale Community Hospital where they were admitted Sunday following an automobile accident.

A third person injured in the collision of two cars on U. S. Route 40 about one mile west of Grantsville early Sunday afternoon was released yesterday from the hospital. He is Raymond Edward Singer Jr., 21, of Silver Spring who had suffered minor chest injuries.

Gilbert Dunnivan sustained chest injuries and a fractured wrist and Mrs. Dunnivan sustained lacerations of the face and a rib fracture.

Trooper Glenn D. Folk of the Maryland State Police said he has not preferred charges in the case pending further investigation. He said the Singer vehicle was traveling east on the highway and skidded on the wet road into the oncoming Dunnivan car.

Fun Fair Queen Feted By Group

Miss Billie Joyce Snyder last night was crowned queen of the Fun Fair being held by the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association.

Miss Snyder was honor guest at a dinner in Grace Methodist Church. She was crowned by last year's queen, Mrs. Nancy Anderson.

Miss Snyder, daughter of Robert E. Snyder, 303 Virginia Ave., will be a senior next fall at Fort Hill High School. She also was presented with several gifts by merchants of the association.

The regular business meeting of the association followed the honoring of the queen.
